

President to Confer With Business Men On Production

Plans to Discuss Ways of Avoiding Glutted Markets

WOULD END 'EVILS' Anti-Lynching Bill Again Causes Delays In Senate

Washington — (U) — President Roosevelt disclosed today, while a congressional committee wrestled with causes and cures of the present slump, that he proposed a series of conferences with business leaders on how to eliminate overproduction and glutted markets.

Principal point of discussion in the talks, the president revealed at his press conference, will be attacking the market — overproduction problem through ridding business of what administration spokesmen call "evil" practices such as high pressure salesmanship.

Not the business situation but senate interest in railroad deals caused Edsel Ford, son of the noted motor car manufacturer, to appear before one congressional committee.

Committee Hearing

He testified that Ford interests got into the railroad business through purchase of the Detroit, Toledo and Iron line in 1920 with "some ideas" on making improvements, but got out of it nine years later because under interstate commerce commission regulation "we found we couldn't do the things we wanted to do."

The works progress administration came forward with its long-awaited ruling that persons receiving unemployment compensation cannot also get federal relief. It was estimated this would affect about 25,000 or 30,000 WPA workers in 22 states which have such compensation.

The senate heard Senator Borah (R-Idaho) undertake his attack on the anti-lynching bill with an assertion that the south has dealt with the race problem with "greater success than any people in the history of the world."

ROOSEVELT NAMES FOUR ENVOYS

President Roosevelt today announced appointment of four ambassadors. Hugh R. Wilson (upper left), assistant secretary of state, will be ambassador to Germany, to succeed William E. Dodd, who resigned. Norman H. Armour (upper right), present minister to Canada, will be ambassador to Chile. Joseph E. Davies (lower left), now ambassador to Russia, will be ambassador to Belgium, and Joseph P. Kennedy (lower right), chairman of the maritime commission, will be ambassador to Great Britain.

Kennedy New Ambassador To Britain; Wilson Will Succeed Dodd in Germany

Washington — (U) — President Roosevelt today announced the appointment of four ambassadors to take over the posts of those who have resigned or been recalled.

Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the maritime commission, will be ambassador to Great Britain. He will succeed the late Robert W. Bingham of Kentucky.

The Kennedy appointment was announced at Mr. Roosevelt's press conference at which he also disclosed that the purpose of a 1935 major oil company gasoline buying program was to maintain a place in the industry for small, independent refiners.

Madison — (U) — Charles Arnott, key defendant in the federal government's gasoline price-fixing case, asserted in cross-examination today that the purpose of a 1935 major oil company gasoline buying program was to maintain a place in the industry for small, independent refiners.

In that period, Arnott said, "the independent refiner had no place in the industry and this was an effort to give him that place with a demand for his gasoline."

The government alleges that 16 major oil companies and 37 individuals conspired to raise and fix mid-western gasoline prices in 1935 and 1936 by means of a program of buying surplus gasoline from the independents.

Special Prosecutor Hammond Chaffetz demanded to know why, if the program was to aid the independents, the companies waited until March, 1935, when the Connally act barring interstate shipment of hot oil became effective, instead of starting in January or February.

"The reason that you wanted to wait until the Connally act was passed was that you couldn't get that published tank car market up so long as there was hot oil that was competing with gasoline that was sold just that way," Chaffetz asked.

"That was one reason," Arnott said.

Phil to Appoint Advisory Council

Action Is Preparatory to Setting Up State Commerce Department

Madison — (U) — Governor LaFollette will take a major step next week in setting up the state department of commerce created by the 1937 legislature by naming an advisory council of 20 members, it was disclosed at the executive office today.

Fifty candidates for council positions were recommended to the chief executive by the Wisconsin Manufacturers association, the state chamber of commerce and other business groups. The legislature provided for a council of from 12 to 25 members.

Governor LaFollette is authorized to designate a chairman, and will later make known his choice for director, whose salary is not to exceed $7,000 a year. The council must confirm the director.

Persons experienced in business, industry and commerce, but not particularly connected with political parties, will receive first consideration in the selections, it was learned. The council will be limited originally to 20 members to permit the addition of five spokesmen of industries which may be overlooked.

Ask $209,600 For Rebuilding Fox River Dam

300 Planes and 24 Warships Hunt Bomber

Army Engineers Favor Reconstruction of Upper Dam at Appleton

Naval Official Expects Flying Boat Will be Found at Sea

TOTAL OF $371,500

$41,900 Requested for Dredging, $120,000 For Operation

BY RUBY A. BLACK

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington — Reconstruction of the upper dam on the Fox river at Appleton at a cost of $209,600 during the fiscal year 1939, which begins next July 1, is planned by the army board of engineers for rivers and harbors, the board's annual report to congress today disclosed.

The engineers also asked $41,900 for dredging in the Fox river, and $120,000 for operation and care, making this $371,500 project the largest planned for Wisconsin during the coming year, excepting the completion of the 9-foot channel in the upper Mississippi river.

For improving waterways throughout the United States, the engineers estimate that $100,753,124 can be "profitably expended" on new work and $46,092,585 on maintenance. Thus, if congress appropriates the entire amount, it is likely that all recommended Wisconsin projects will be carried out. If congress cuts the appropriation, either the entire program will be slowed up, or the less urgent improvements will be postponed.

Reporting that the old upper dam at Appleton is in poor condition and has insufficient flood-discharge capacity for the proper regulation of Lake Winnebago, the engineers asked congress to appropriate funds for reconstruction. They plan to do the job in the summer of this year.

$351,644 in Current Year

During the current fiscal year, the engineers are spending $351,644 on the Fox river, including completion of the Little Kaukauna lock by next May at a cost of $160,000.

The engineer's report that dredging on the upper river is no longer considered economically justifiable.

Government Forces Winning at Teruel

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Border

(U) — The Spanish government army appeared today to have gained a winning margin in the most intensive fighting of the 17-day Teruel campaign.

The battle centered about Conclud to the north of Teruel, and government communiques proclaimed complete defeat of insurgent troops.

The insurgents were seeking by counter-offensive to break through government lines to Teruel, which Dec. 21 a strategic insurgent base in operations toward government Valencia on the east.

Within the provincial city, 160 miles to the east of Madrid, remnants of an insurgent garrison still are fighting a snipers' warfare with government troops. The garrison was cut from escape in the surprise offensive by which the Madrid army fought its way into the city.

Insurgent General Francisco Franco's massive offensive of infantry, artillery and aviation was repulsed between Conclud and Teruel, a Barcelona communique said.

Want State-Owned Radio Station on Air at Night

Washington — (U) — Governor Phil LaFollette of Wisconsin and President C. A. Dykstra of the state university today advocated night-time operation of the state-owned radio station WLB at Stevens Point.

Their support of the station's application for authority to operate from 6 a. m. to 10 p. m. instead of from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. as at present, was contained in letters offered in evidence by Attorney General O. S. Loomis at a communications commission hearing.

"We are proud we have the most complete coverage of any state in the union by a state owned broadcasting station," the governor wrote.

Dykstra said, "Wisconsin needs and is entitled to expansion of its broadcasting facilities. I believe our plans should include development as a unit of the entire broadcasting system of the state in the service of the public."

Airliner Lands in New Jersey Swamp But 8 Persons Aboard Escape Injury

Newark, N. J. — (U) — A transport airplane carrying five men passengers and a crew of three was squashed down in the mud and water of a treacherous swamp today when its pilot undershot Newark airport during the storm-swept early morning hours.

The plane came down shortly after 3 a. m. (E. S. T.). Until dawn the passengers stayed inside the plane, protecting cabin waiting for help. Pilot Usher Rousch of Chicago plunged through the marsh in the dark to the airport three miles away, led a rescue party back to return the passengers to safety.

Rousch suffered a cut over one eye in the bumpy landing but none of the others, the airline said, was injured. After walking through the mud and water to the airport, the passengers warmed up on hot coffee and sandwiches and went on to New York by automobile, apparently none the worse for their experience.

The passengers were Jack Ryan, William Ogilvie and A. R. Watkins, all of Chicago; Mike Lunder of Boston, and Herbert Shapiro of Newton, Mass.

Besides Rousch, the crew consisted of Stanley Gerding, co-pilot, and Vernice Lalley, Stewardess, both of Chicago.

Watkins said he was "praying hard" when the big airliner first hit the soft ground but was confident everything "would be all right after we bounced the third time."

Rousch, near exhaustion after his trek through the swamp in the rain, said he misjudged the position of the runway because of the low visibility.

Federation Head Urges Maximum Hour Law as Weapon Against Slump

Italy to Launch Naval Building Program at Once

Two Battleships, Dozen Destroyers and Submarines Included

Rome — (U) — Italy is to begin immediate construction of two more 35,000 ton battleships, twelve destroyers and an important number of submarines, it was announced officially today.

Determined to make his fleet top-notch in an unsettled Europe, Premier Mussolini moved with characteristic swiftness in announcing the new battleships would be named Roma and Impero and would be built in Trieste and Genoa.

The specifications of submarines was not mentioned, the communique saying that the total would be "important."

With the announced increase, Italy would have four first class fighting vessels of 35,000 tons and 56 destroyers. This would give her preponderance over France in heavy fighting ships, and greatly enhance her strength in the Mediterranean.

France now has but two 35,000 ton battleships, both "replicas" of the Italian Littorio and the Littorio, launched last summer.

With addition of the new submarines Italy will retain her position as the leading power in number of this type of fighting vessel with over 100 units.

When Mussolini's new program is completed Italy will have a navy of more than 500,000 tons, the largest in her history and close to the total tonnage of the French navy.

When the Littorio and Vittorio Veneto were launched last summer it was indicated two more 35,000-ton battleships would be begun shortly in the big slips of Trieste and Genoa, thus made vacant.

(The battleship program carries forward Italy's announced determination to have an "ocean-going navy" capable of carrying Italian seapower beyond the Mediterranean sea, especially into the Red sea and the Indian ocean, following the eastward course of Italian imperial expansion.)

The Italian press mentioned President Roosevelt's request for a larger navy along with the British and French naval program as reasons for Italy's enlarged battleship plan.

A fascist spokesman said that peoples whose interests the democracies disregard cannot "tolerate the dangerous and unjust supremacy of those powers."

He declared the democracies — of which the United States, Britain and France are the strongest — "without irony justify their navies as necessary for safeguarding the peace of the world."

New Regime Is Needed in China, Jap Envoy Says

Declares Peace Negotiations 'Out of Question for the Present'

Shanghai — (Saturday) — Shigeru Kawagoe, Japanese ambassador to China, declared today peace negotiations were "out of the question for the present."

He said Japan should "repudiate" the Nanking government as the central authority for China.

(The central Chinese government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek recently has reorganized, apparently to strengthen its resistance to Japan.)

"A new regime is needed," Kawagoe declared. "It must be one absolutely relying on the technical and economic support and guidance of Japan."

Major General A. P. D. Teller-Smollett, commanding British troops at Shanghai, protested Friday against an attack by Japanese soldiers on two British officers of the Shanghai municipal police.

General Teller-Smollett accused Japanese armed forces of invading the British defense zone in the International Settlement and was reported to have warned the Japanese that repetition might "result in the gravest consequences."

Inspector F. G. West, one of the officers, said he and Sergeant A. R. Turner were watching Japanese soldiers search Chinese peddlers near the line between the British defense zone and the Japanese occupied area and remarked that the peddlers were receiving unnecessarily rough treatment.

West said a Japanese policeman shouted, "it's none of your damned business," and struck Turner on the nose. Several Japanese soldiers then rushed across the line, the officer declared, and pummeled him.

When he rushed to Turner's aid, West said, the Japanese soldiers beat him also.

REICH EXECUTES THREE

Berlin — (U) — Three Germans, two convicted of treason and one of espionage, were executed by the guillotine at dawn today. They were Josef Starck, Otto Demwloff and Herbert Gajewski.

Hamburg, Germany — (U) — Arnold Bernstein, Jewish head of the Red Star and Arnold Bernstein shipping lines who had been in jail 11 months, was sentenced today to 30 months in prison and a fine of $1,000,000 marks ($400,000) on charges of violating Germany's rigid foreign exchange laws.

Bernstein specifically was charged with having a New York secret account of $80,000 to $100,000 which was not declared to the Reichsbank June 1, 1933.

The ship owner declared the sum was for use in his shipping business, upon which American creditors held $5,000,000 in mortgages. He contended that in June, 1933, his New York agent had a lien of $96,600 against the lines.

The charges against Bernstein were treason and infringing upon the currency laws. The prosecution had demanded five years and a fine of 4,500,000 marks ($1,800,000).

One of Bernstein's associates, Berthold Gumpel, was sentenced to 30 months in jail and fined $15,000 marks ($234,000).

Three Children Killed in Blast

Mother Seriously Hurt in Tennessee Tragedy; 4 Under Arrest

Elizabethtown, Tenn. — (U) — Three children were killed and their mother was seriously injured early today when dynamite wrecked their home near here.

Deputy Sheriff Roy Asher said officers were working on a theory the blast was the outgrowth of a slaying in 1936. A woman and three men were held for investigation.

The dead: Sonia Gouge, 9, Lucena Gouge, 7, and Roma Jean Gouge, 5. Mrs. Harmon Gouge, 34, was injured.

Asher said Sonia and Roma Jean were killed instantly and that Lucena died en route to the hospital.

Harmon Gouge, 34, father and husband of the victims, was at Johnson City at the time of the blast.

"There must have been a case of dynamite in the basement of the house just below the bedroom where the mother and children were sleeping," Asher said. "The explosion shattered the house and caved in the foundation."

Officers found a burned fuse stretching from the house 30 feet across a road.

"The fuse had been set on the road across from the house," the deputy said. "The children and mother apparently all were asleep."

Asher said Gouge is the self-confessed slayer of Arnold Tollett, killed at a filling station near here in October, 1936 and is at liberty under $10,000 bond awaiting trial.

No Advance Notice of Court Appointment

Washington — (U) — President Roosevelt told reporters today they could expect no intimation from him regarding a successor to Associate Justice George Sutherland of the supreme court until the nomination goes to the senate. He told a press conference there had been no decision in the matter as yet.

BACKED FOR COURT

The house of representatives judiciary committee suggested in a letter to President Roosevelt that he name Representative Hattin W. Summers of Texas, chairman of the committee, to succeed Justice George Sutherland on the supreme court.

Sears, Roebuck Chief Sees Gains by Next Spring

CALLS 'FEAR' CAUSE Recent Attacks 'Frightened' Business, Wood Says

Washington — (U) — William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who helped kill the wage-hour bill in the special session of congress, advocated maximum hour legislation in industrial employment today as a means of ending the slump.

Green testified before a senate committee on unemployment. Before he took the stand, President Robert E. Wood of Sears, Roebuck and Company told the committee that employment in the consumers goods industry would increase by March or April.

To this, however, he added that recent speeches by assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson and Interior Secretary Ickes, attacking "abuses" by some business interests had been "frightening" to business generally. But he called President Roosevelt's recent message to congress "reassuring."

7-Point Plan

Green offered a seven-point program for recovery. It included not only regulated shorter work hours but also maintenance of existing suspension of requirements for local contributions to the low-rent housing program, further stimulation of private home building, broadening of the social security program and an increased appropriation for relief.

Despite A. F. of L. opposition to the wage-hour bill as it was drafted for the special session, Green advanced today no specific plan for putting a roof over hours, or a floor under present wages.

He said merely that "labor maintains that the shortening of hours of work is an essential prerequisite to the reduction of unemployment. Legislative action to make effective this shortening of hours should be item number one in the agenda of this congress."

In the special session A. F. of L. opposition was directed chiefly at a provision of the wage-hour bill giving regulation into the hands of a commission. It was considered significant, however, that today he asked not for fixed minimum wages but for maintenance of present wage standards.

May Revive Bill

Indications that the wage-hour bill buried last session may be called back to the house again in some form came from Representative Fries (D-Texas) who declared it could be revived quickly if a "proper compromise" could be reached.

He said a small group of proponents had started drafting a compromise after conferences with leaders of the opposition.

"We want to carry out the platform of the Democratic party," he said, "by providing proper cooperation between the federal government and the states. But a new measure will not be brought to the floor of the house until the president approves it."

It was learned that a leader of the drive for the wage-hour bill had suggested that wages and hours, in some cases, might be set by particular states, rather than by an administrative board or administrator in Washington.

Wood's testimony reminded many observers at the hearing that William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors, said yesterday his company was counting on an upturn in the spring.

Knudsen later talked with President Roosevelt, who reported at his press conference today that the talk produced no specific suggestion for economic remedies, but that some might be suggested in later discussion.

Inventories Reduced

Sears, Roebuck has begun to buy again, having reduced abnormal inventories it piled up last summer after warnings by industrialists that labor troubles might impede production later in the year.

"I believe," he said, "that inventories in general will be down to normal in 30 days." He said accumulation of inventories was one of the causes of the slump in buying which brought about the business decline and subsequently increased unemployment.

Wood said the recession has not hurt his company's business seriously thus far.

Sales declined during the last two months of 1937, he testified, but added:

"In our position as distributors, the recession so far hasn't hit us much. In the field of production, however, there has been a very great recession, causing a great deal of unemployment."

Wood said the prospective consumers goods employment increase "would not be sufficient" to hold up employment generally.

Under questioning the business man attributed the slump to large inventories; to what he called the "mistaken" action of the federal reserve board in raising its rediscount rates and to general lack of confidence on the part of business men.

Richberg Voices His Support of Industrial Plan

'More Orderly Flow of Business' Essential, He Maintains

Washington—(AP)—Donald Richberg drew today on his experience as onetime NRA head to express support of President Roosevelt's proposal for government-business cooperation in planning the future production of goods.

"It is essential to produce a more orderly flow of business by a general understanding of the likelihood for marketing goods and of the public's purchasing power," he said in an interview.

"What happens now?" he asked. "When we get a market, we go in and sell it to the limit. The result is, we oversell it in one year—and the next year we have a slump. We've taken all the money out of the customers that's available."

Eggs Helpful in Diet During Dark Months of Winter

Yolk Contains Virtually All of Vitamin Alpha, Expert Says

While eggs have an important place in the diet through all seasons, they are especially beneficial during the dark winter months when sunshine vitamins are needed in the diet, according to C. Howard King, state poultry and egg marketing specialist, in a communication to R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent.

The egg yolk contains virtually all of the vitamin alpha, King said, with most of the vitamins being present in generous amounts. Vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin, is present in egg yolks in such quantities as to be exceeded only in fish oils. Thus, eggs can be truly classified as "sealed packages of sunshine," he explained.

In addition to the health value of eggs, the present 30 to 35 cent cost per dozen of Wisconsin grade A eggs makes eggs economical in the winter diet, he pointed out. This economy is made possible by recent improved methods of winter egg production which have brought the price within reach of all, he observed. Less than 20 years ago the price paid for winter eggs was 80 cents per dozen.

Medical authorities point out that both the yolk and the white of an egg are complete proteins independently capable of supporting growth and valuable in bringing to full efficiency the cheaper cereal proteins, it was explained.

"If we are willing to eat plenty of June grass, alfalfa, and yellow corn, then eggs will not be needed as much in the diet, but most of us prefer to let the chickens eat these and are satisfied to consume the refined product the chickens manufacture," King commented.

January Cold to Be Forgotten as Days Get Longer

Although the heat received from the sun during the day still fails to equal the loss by night, it won't be long before thoughts of cold, dark mornings may be discarded for another year.

Instead, bright sunshine will greet early morning risers for the days are beginning to lengthen each time the earth turns and 24 hours is counted off the calendar.

Tomorrow morning the sun will rise at 7:29 and will set at 4:44 in the evening. A minute will be added to the length of each day up to Jan. 14 and on Jan. 15, two minutes will be added when the sun rises a minute earlier and sets a minute later. LUNCH WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

Eddie Neil's Death Was Loss to Newspaper World

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—Eddie Neil, the Associated Press reporter who was killed by a shell in Spain, was a member of that laughing, skylarking company of sports writers who campaigned with the bull clubs and football trowels and covered the big fights in the era that Paul Gallico called the golden decade. He was a tall, smiling kid, but prematurely gray with a bobbing cockade of white hair when he first came to town, and it took him no time at all to become a first-string man in an unbelievably pleasant and widely envied line of work.

The sports writer led the life of Riley, and hundreds of other newspaper men naturally wished to break away from the city side and other departments and go clattering around the country with a little toy typewriter and a satchel in the company of the athletes and the fascinating characters of the prize fight trade, with nothing to do but write easy pieces about events which millions of people paid to see.

The sports side still is the free and easy branch of journalism, and I cannot imagine that it will ever again be as attractive as it was in Eddie Neil's time in the press section. There is no Ruth, no Bobby Jones, no Rickard, and the fizzling out of Joe Louis, the colored boy, leave the heavyweight class of fighters without a writable character, for Max Schmeling is a dull and old-told tale and Tommy Farr, though picturesque, seems unimportant.

Eddie broke away a couple of years ago, and though I hadn't seen him since, I judge from old conversations and from his timing that he was bored by the triviality and repetition of the stories which he was covering and wanted a line of work that would give him ambition something to punch at. He never seemed particularly adventurous in the sports business, but when he started going to the wars we began to hear of his taking risks which to those of us who looked on behind the scenes in France in good cars were beyond the line of duty.

Pegler

These New Wars Are Very Loosely Conducted

That was a well-regulated war, with routine and rules, but these new ones seem to be very loosely conducted. For I believe more correspondents have been killed and wounded in Abyssinia, China and Spain than in the entire four years of the war to end war—on the allied side, at least.

Eddie flew with his Italian friends in Abyssinia and was injured in a crash. He exposed his life in Palestine, and finally in Spain, a long distance and a long time away from his wife and little boy, he was killed. The big war produced some really fine writing by Phil Simms, Phillip Gibbs, Wythe Williams and others, but these new wars are adventure, assignments, and it is my impression that there is a sacrifice of art or fancy in the writing in favor of facts obtained by brave initiative under hard and dangerous conditions. Webb Miller, after his experiences in Abyssinia and Spain, was faint and trembling when he was last in this country, and the reporter who now probably can claim to have covered more wars than any other active reporter and war, intimately and to a large extent on foot, seemed to need a year in the quiet routine of night police.

Something About Him

Made People Happier

It is hard to write of the character of a good friend who has gone without stopping over, but anyone who knew Eddie Neil on the sports side will agree that there was something in his nature which always made people happier when he came onto an assignment. There are people like that whose optimism and confidence and pleasure in life and work and decency in their dealings with others have a helpful effect on those with whom they associate. The men who worked with Eddie in the war business will say that of him, although undoubtedly they will say it better.

In years of friendship with Eddie I never knew or heard of a single mean or selfish act, and the men who had the luck to work on the same pine benches with him at sports shows from Cambridge to Los Angeles and Miami will share the loss of Helen Nolan Neil, the little girl reporter who used to wait in the background for him to fold up his box after the big fights.

He was just whooping along on his new career as a war correspondent, and nothing could have stopped him less than a shell.

Opponents of LaFollette Fear Reorganization Act Usurps Legislative Rights

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—With but few exceptions, opposition to the state government reorganization act has been based on the claim that the state legislature in handing over blanket power to the governor violated the principles of democratic government by giving him power which properly belongs to the legislative branch of the government.

Political partisans, of course, belabored that question with allegations that Governor LaFollette is interested only in building up himself and his personal party machine, and that the reorganization act is a device to staff the statehouse with his party underlings, thus to build a Wisconsin model of the notorious Tammany machine.

Generally, however, the opposition of a large share of the public has been, and is, due to a very real fear that democratic fundamentals are being thrown into the discard, that governmental executives are steadily usurping fields of authority by right reserved to the people's legislative representatives.

And, of course, back of this theoretical consideration was the practical fear that the governor might now use the great power given him wisely. In fact, some Progressives have privately admitted that they would not have voted equivalent powers to a Democratic or Republican governor.

Involved Trust

To these critics of the reorganization program it is simply a case of Governor LaFollette saying, "Give me blanket power and trust me to use it right."

An opponent of the governor's reorganization program might argue as follows:

Except for a few details, the LaFollette administration did not let the legislature into the secret of what it contemplated. The best it can now offer is a belated veto power. When the reorganization is completed, and the legislature is again in regular session, legislators can say no to the changes, and the old order will be reestablished.

The governor asks the power to do the legislating, while the legislature will have the veto power which is ordinarily his. He wants to exchange functions with the legislature as the first step in his reform of government.

Merit Badge Show Will be Presented By Council Troops

Demonstrations, Displays Planned in District City Stores

Instead of their annual circus, Boy Scouts of the valley council will hold a Merit Badge show in April, it has been announced from the office of Walter Dixon, scout executive.

Actual demonstrations of the work leading up to the various merit badges and exhibitions of finished work, such as sketches, woven baskets, bird houses, and stuffed birds, will make up the show. It is planned to hold the demonstrations and displays in the windows of stores and business houses in cities in the valley council.

The show will be held in the "key" city of each district. The work of troop projects and the committees will cooperate with the scouts in preparing their displays. Each troop will exhibit at least one merit badge display.

In a mimeographed pamphlet prepared by E. E. Thomas, scout commissioner, and mailed to valley council troops, are suggestions for

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

Mr. Roosevelt Versus Messrs. Jackson and Ickes

The question whether in denouncing monopoly Mr. Jackson was the pioneer of a new policy, whether his words meant what they seemed to mean, is now much clearer. To the president himself the words of Mr. Jackson did not mean what they seemed to mean. For in his press conference on Tuesday the president rejected root and branch the whole thesis of Mr. Jackson's speech. Far from wishing to end monopoly and to restore competitive prices Mr. Roosevelt is now, as always, in favor of the monopolistic control of production under government supervision and direction.

Has No Wish to See Rule by Competition

If the reports are correct, and the leading White House correspondents all tell substantially the same story, Mr. Roosevelt has no wish to see industry regulated by competition in free and open markets. Nor does he wish, as so many reports from Washington have hinted, to foster the development of a larger number of smallish independent producers as against the giant corporations which in many fields dominate their industries.

After all that Mr. Jackson had to say about monopoly, after all that Mr. Ickes had to say about the concentration of economic power in the hands of "corporate empires" and the sixty families, Mr. Roosevelt expounded his own notions on Tuesday. He is in favor of making it legal for the representatives of industries to sit at a table with representatives of the government. These round tables are to estimate the probable sales for the following six months or so, and then the corporate empires are to plan the production for the industry.

To be sure the president said that the round tables are to be forbidden to fix prices. They are to be forbidden to decide amongst themselves how much each corporation is to produce under the plan. They are to be forbidden to cut each other's throats. But having "cooperated" in deciding how much steel or coke or cement shall be produced, they are then presumably to compete energetically for as big a share as possible of the pie they have agreed to keep at an agreed size.

Example of Moving Time

Coming from the head of an administration which professes to favor the small business man and to oppose monopoly, fixed prices, and concentrated corporate control, this is altogether the most remarkable example imaginable of how to move rapidly in two diametrically opposite directions at the same time.

For in the first place, on what basis are these round tables to estimate the sales demand for the next season of production? Are they to guess how much can be sold at the existing price, at a higher price, or at a lower price? The president may say he does not want private price fixing but his whole scheme assumes that the round table will have fixed a price. For the only way to guess how much can be sold of some commodity is

Apple Growing Now Is Specialized Job, State Expert Says

"Commercial apple growing has undergone tremendous changes within the last generation," Wells A. Sherman of the bureau of agricultural economics states in a bulletin to R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent.

"Originally apples were one of several money crops grown on general farms. They were picked by the family or farm help and stored on the place until sold in some nearby town. Today the commercial orchard demands such special machinery, buildings, and distribution of labor that the orchardist usually is not a general farmer. He is primarily a fruit grower and any other use of his land is incidental. Thousands of farmers with land adapted to fruit growing find it cheaper to buy most of their fruit from professional orchardists than to equip themselves to take proper care of the few trees needed for home supplies."

Nowhere, nowadays, is it practicable to grow apples on a large scale without spraying for protection against insects. Washington has become the leading apple state, growing nearly the whole crop under irrigation on lands that are naturally too dry for tree growth.

In the east the most important apple areas are in the Appalachian region from Roanoke, Va., to southern Pennsylvania. This apple belt has the advantage of short hauls to the markets of the industrial areas, and quicker shipping time to the export markets of Europe.

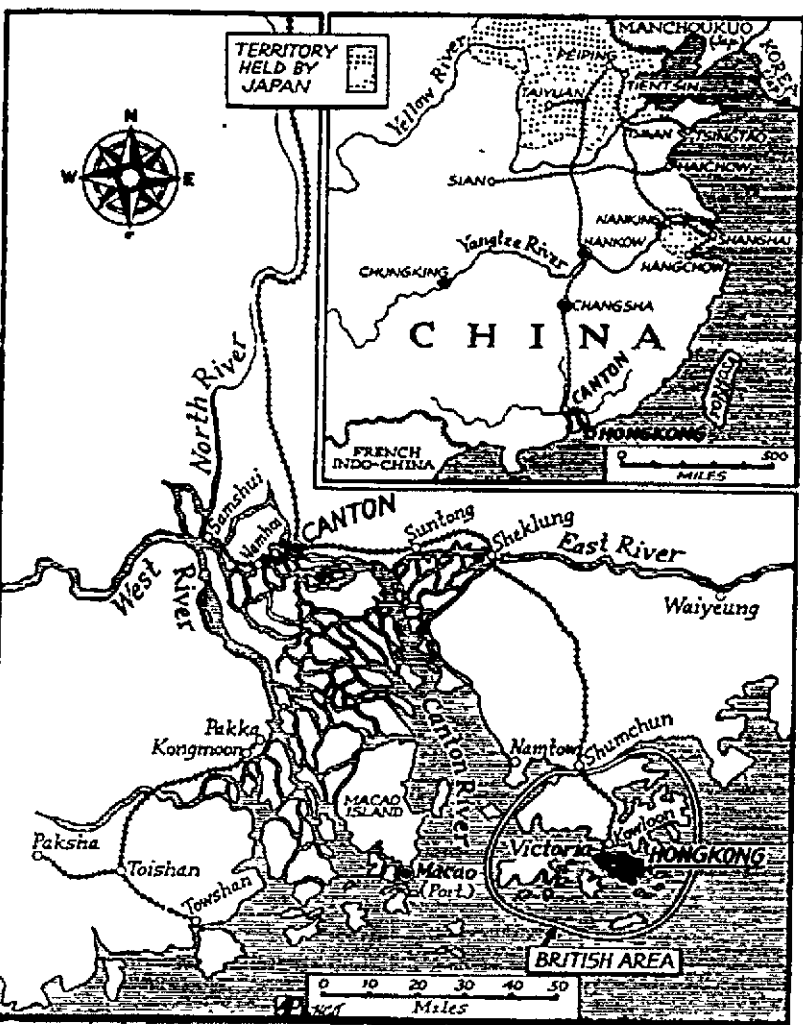

Commercial fruit growing has tended to center production on a few varieties. Growers find an advantage in marketing full carloads of the same variety, and consumers, nowadays, are familiar with only a few varieties.

rect this private monopoly by the power of a centralized government. He is no believer in the traditional American progressive ideal of economic democracy operating through free markets, as Mr. Jackson may be, as Mr. Jackson's noisy speech and his admirable record might lead one to think. Mr. Roosevelt is an exponent of an economic system controlled by the decisions of its corporate empires and its political bureaucrats. The usual name for this is state capitalism, and it was state capitalism that the President advocated on Tuesday.

Britain Tightens Hold On Far Eastern Outpost

New York — (U)— The possibility of a Japanese drive on south China focuses British eyes on Hongkong, that "little bit of England" half way round the world from home. Reason: Logical object of a Japanese push southward would be Canton, principal city of that area; and only 90 miles farther south from Canton lies Hongkong, Britain's stronghold on the Chinese coast.

Hongkong, you may be surprised to know, is not a city, but a British crown colony, 390 square miles in area, which forms the bottleneck through which flows a vast trade with the great interior of south China.

A rocky island, 11 miles long, with a ridge of hills rising nearly 2,000 feet, is the original Hongkong. During the Opium war, resulting from importation of opium into China by foreign traders, the

They are Helen Roloff, David Ruhman, Edward Sullivan, Louis Lathrop, James Roloff, Eunice Roloff, Garrett Sullivan, Robert Roloff, Earl Roloff and Vernon Roloff.

Miss Mary Appleton, teacher at the Elm Hill school, town of Oneida, reports the following students perfect in attendance: Eunice Johnson, Carol Polun, Josephine Johnson, Wallace Okay, Donald Skendore, Henry Skendore, Mary Huff, Beatrice Huff, Merlyn School, Elmer Verkuilen, Joseph Skendore, Lorraine Okay, Barbara Schuyler and Dorothy School.

Robert Matz and Lucille Young were perfect in attendance at the Cedar View school, Maple Creek, according to Miss Alice McLaughlin, teacher.

73 Vets on Soldiers' And Sailors' Relief

Forty-eight soldiers and sailors' relief applications were investigated during December by Edward E. Lutz, Outagamie county service officer, according to his monthly report. There were 73 veterans on relief during the month at a cost of $1,072.33. Six applications to enter the veterans' hospital were made during the month. At present there are 17 confined to the hospital from Outagamie county.

ships and military planes guard the fortified harbor. Following rumors that Japan was sending large forces to south China for a drive against Canton, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons the government "will defend British possessions wherever they may be." Later a British patrol was dispatched to Tokyo after Japanese were reported to have seized a Chinese customs vessel in Hongkong territorial waters. At the same time London announced troops were being sent from India to strengthen the British garrison at Hongkong.

Demonstrations and Lectures Feature Sessions At Armory G

The 3-day institute for WPA recreation leaders in Green Bay district No. 2 came to a close last night at Armory G. Fifty-seven leaders from Oconto, Brown, Marinette, Shawano, Winnebago, Manitowish and Outagamie counties attended the sessions.

The state WPA recreation training staff, Madison, was in charge of the institute under the supervision of Harold F. Moer, assistant to the state director.

James B. Kemp, state art superintendent; Hans J. Schmidt, state drama superintendent; and Miss Jeanne Hilliard, state music superintendent, gave the instructions in group leadership in craftwork, dramatics and music. Other persons who aided in conducting the institute were James W. Crossett, zone recreation supervisor, and his assistant, Byron S. Foster, together with Hubert Piette, Outagamie county recreational supervisor, who was in charge of housing and general arrangements.

Addresses of welcome were given Tuesday morning by Mark Muth, district WPA director, and Miss Ruth McKenna, supervisor of women's and professional projects.

Following the general session group meetings were held and continued throughout the three days. Frequent general sessions were held for lectures on various phases of the program. The principal purpose of the group meetings was to give each attending leader a workable knowledge in puppetry, clay modeling and folk dancing.

The training institute will be followed during the next three months with another institute covering more extensive phases of drama, music and art and craft work.

Science Explores Laws, Technology Submits to Them

Difference Between Two Is Subject of Dean Millis' Talk

A scientist is happy to find exceptions to laws while a technologist expects conformity. Dean John Millis of Lawrence college said in a talk before students at convocation in Memorial chapel this morning.

"Scientific progress occurs only when exceptions are discovered, studied, and followed so that this unusual behavior throws more light upon fundamental aspects of various problems," the dean said in his speech on the differences between science and technology.

The technologist "takes without question and proceeds to build a bridge or a machine," Dean Millis pointed out, while the "scientist expects to find contradictions and, therefore, is always alert for the possibility that his rules are not wholly correct."

Science deals with individual entities while technology deals with groups having a large number of individuals, the dean said. "An electrical engineer is interested in electrical current which is a stream of countless millions of electrons whereas the physicist is more interested in the behavior of a single electron."

Another difference cited by the dean was explained in these words: "Science exists mainly for its own sake and for the sake of discovering truth. Technology... is greatly affected, in fact, is almost controlled by man's wants and desires."

Dean Millis told the students he hoped his talk would impress upon them that "one mark of an educated man is that he recognizes that there is far more meaning in a word than is given by definition."

Mayor Goodland received the annual application of the Sells-Sterling circus for a license to locate in Appleton. The circus applied for a day sometime during the last week of May or the first week of June.

and that the remaining rock removal is not needed unless there is "a material increase in commerce."

The United States dipper dredge De Pere will operate in the summer and fall of 1938 and the spring of 1939, at a cost of $20,400, and the United States bucket dredge Winnebago will operate during the same period, at a cost of $21,500.

Various Costs
For operation during the fiscal year 1939, the engineers estimate $73,000 for operation of locks and dams, $23,000 for ordinary maintenance and repairs, $22,000 for improvements and minor reconstruction, and $2,000 for emergencies.

Deepening Neenah channel is no longer desired by navigation interests, the report says.

If the project should be completed as originally planned—which the engineers do not now consider necessary, it would take $1,161,300. By the end of last June, the government had spent $2,937,520.22 on the Fox river project, in addition to $3,795,495.53 on operation and care of the works.

Work which the army engineers hope to do on other Wisconsin projects during the coming fiscal year is as follows:

Clearing pool area at the Trempealeau dam, $32,000.

Lock and dam at LaCrosse, $56,000, including lockkeepers' dwellings, $21,000; esplanade and landscaping, $33,000; footbridge, $12,000.

Lock and dam at Genoa, $252,000, including underpass, $12,000; land and flowage acquisition, $240,000.

Lock and dam at Lynxville, $410,000, including lockkeepers' dwellings, $21,000; esplanade and landscaping, $39,000; land and flowage acquisition, $240,000.

Channel Project
Black river, $85,000 to continue dredging a channel 9 feet deep below the normal elevation of pool No. 8, substantially from bank to bank, and extending from the mouth at LaCrosse to a point 14 miles upstream.

St. Croix river, $17,000 for dredging.

Duluth-Superior harbor, $70,000, including $50,000 for dredging, $10,000 for repairs to the breakwater.

Kimberly—The organization of a cub pack composed of boys from eight to 12 years of age was discussed at a meeting of the troop committee of Troop 19 of Boy Scouts at the village hall last night. A leader will be named soon for the cub pack.

Scoutmaster Ed Bankert reported that the scouts are now collecting old newspapers and magazines to sell. The proceeds will go into the camping fund.

The troop committee has announced that the old village hall will be the troop headquarters. Lights will be installed and other improvements made.

Present at the meeting were Bankert, Leon Goffard, chairman, William Van Hout, assistant scoutmaster, Al Adams, Ted Wachten-donk, W. H. Webb, Jess Wydevan, and John Bernardy.

Lytle Says Rumor Of School Boiler Explosion Is False

Rumors of an explosion supposed to be destroying a section of the boiler room and one of the boilers at the new senior high school building are absolutely unfounded, A. J. Lytle, construction superintendent, said today.

The superintendent spiked the rumor with an explanation of the incident and said, "Moisture content in the concrete floor beneath the boiler, when heated, created a steam pressure within the concrete, which cracked. There was a slight concussion which blew ashes and soot out of the boiler."

The boilers were not damaged and the cracked floor is being repaired. Mr. Lytle said the incident is not unusual and frequently occurs when a fire is built on wet concrete before it has a chance to become thoroughly dry.

Charge Against Taxi Driver Is Dismissed

Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court this morning dismissed the case in which Elmer Selig, taxi driver, 1002 N. Durkee street, was charged with failure to give his name and address following an accident. Selig had pleaded not guilty to the charge when he appeared in municipal court Monday. He testified that he had stopped after the accident and had reported it to his company before taking some fares in the cab to their destinations.

Building Workers In 'Worst Winter' Since Depression

Trades Council Urges Business, Industry to Start Building Now

Charles Debenack, president and business agent of the Building and Trades council, said this morning that "Appleton building and trades workmen are facing the worst winter since the depression."

His statement followed a meeting of the council last night at which a resolution urging "business men and managers of industry to give us their cooperation by starting their building projects immediately" was adopted.

Debenack termed "conservative" the estimate that 85 per cent of workmen who are members of the subsidiary unions in the council are out of work at the present time. This estimate was placed at the head of the resolution which the council passed last night.

"We know there is always a let-down in building work in the winter, but usually there is something to do. But the whole bottom has dropped out the last six weeks," Debenack said.

The resolution stated that "this condition is not only very serious to the workmen... but it also is of immediate and direct concern to every person in this community."

The council in its document wrote: "We know that paper mills and other business concerns in the Fox river valley are forming their budgets for expenditures on improvements and new construction for the coming year and are possibly waiting for a change in conditions before proceeding with this work. We feel that building construction can proceed immediately without extra cost and under as favorable conditions as can be expected in the future."

Debenack produced figures compiled two weeks ago showing unemployment among members of the building and trades unions. "Since that time there has been a slump and not an improvement in conditions," he said.

The figures showed that out of 103 carpenters who are union men, 75 are out of work. Twenty-nine out of 38 bricklayers, 300 out of 360 laborers, 30 out of 63 millwrights, and 30 out of 40 painters were unemployed when the poll was taken two weeks ago, according to Debenack. Similar conditions exist in other trades, his figures disclosed.

Vinson Believes Program Offers 'Fair' Schedule

I Think We'll Have a Very Splendid Bill, He Declares

Washington (7)—Representative Vinson (D-Ky.), whose house tax subcommittee has worked for months to draft a "fair" schedule for business taxation, said today "I think we have succeeded."

"We started out with the idea of giving relief to small corporations and to hardship and inequity cases," he said. "I think we'll have a very splendid bill."

"Of course it won't meet with the approval of those using corporate devices for evading taxes."

The committee finished its proposals yesterday. They cover the whole federal tax structure, and administration leaders hope to enact them in a few weeks.

The major recommendations provide for complete overhauling of the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes. These levies have borne most of the criticism that tax statutes have hurt business.

Some corporations would pay more taxes, Vinson said. But in general, he added, the subcommittee's new tax system would grant relief against high rates to 99 per cent of the 200,000 tax-paying corporations.

Changes extending benefits to most corporations would not apply to 500 or 1,000 firms which Vinson described as controlled by a few individuals and used by them as a device for evading payment of high surtaxes on their personal incomes.

Dividends to which the surtaxes would apply are not paid by the corporations, he said, and profits are piled up in them and subjected to a lower corporate tax rate.

Proposed Payments
Under the subcommittee's plan, they would pay the 16 to 20 per cent undistributed taxes applicable to all companies with relatively large incomes. From the net income remaining after payment of those taxes, they could deduct $40,000 or 30 per cent, whichever was larger. On the balance, they would pay a flat 20 per cent rate.

That would make their payments only slightly less than those under the present system of an 8 to 15 per cent normal corporate income tax and a 7 to 27 per cent undistributed profits tax.

The tax revision program should comply, Vinson said, with President Roosevelt's demand that it result in no substantial reduction in revenue. The prospective yield, however, has not been computed definitely.

Changes Favored
Among the changes agreed on during the subcommittee's deliberations were these:

That corporations with incomes of $25,000 or less should pay an income tax of 12 to 16 per cent—

Dr. Frank Accepts Chairmanship of Policy Committee

Hopes 'Sectional Interest' Will be Ignored in Drafting Program

Washington (7)—Glenn Frank, taking over the chairmanship of the Republican party's program committee, asked today for the assistance of every group in the nation, "regardless of party lines or of sectional interest."

The 50-year-old editor and lecturer, who formerly was president of the University of Wisconsin, accepted the assignment last night in a telegram to John Hamilton, chairman of the Republican National committee.

"As I sense the spirit of the members who have already written to me," Frank said, "this commission will not be an agency of petty fault-finding or vindictive attack. It will seek to play its full part in a sincere, open-minded responsible search for the principles and lines of national action that will keep America a going concern."

More than 150 men and women will serve on Frank's committee. The chairmanship was tendered him by the party's executive committee at St. Louis last month.

"No Prior Obligation"
Frank told Hamilton he was free "to accept this post without any prior obligation to any individual or to any group in the party."

"It is not the business of this commission to write platforms for the 1938 and 1940 campaigns," he said in interpreting his duties. "It is not the business of this commission to promote the candidacy of anybody for any office."

"Since office-holders of the party are not in its membership, this commission is a body of laymen asked to devote themselves behind the lines of formal party action to a study of the extraordinarily grave social and economic difficulties that now confront the nation."

"The gravity of the situation cuts across the traditional boundaries of all parties, all sections and all groups."

Chairman Hamilton praised Frank for the "high purpose" with which he began duties.

Frank headed the University of Wisconsin 11 years, until differences with Governor Philip LaFollette led to his removal a year ago.

Plan Creative Writing Contest at High School

Members of the Appleton High school Quill and Scroll society will meet today to plan a creative writing contest. Students will be given until Feb. 21 to turn in copy for judgment. Entrants may write poetry, humorous or non-humorous, essays, short stories or book reviews.

The highest effective rate being 14.1 per cent — and no undistributed profits tax.

That the capital gains tax be "smoothed out," with the smallest portion of gains taxable at the end of 5 instead of ten years' retention of capital assets and provision being made for a one-year carry-over of capital losses to be used to offset gains.

That exemptions from estate and gift taxes be lowered.

That about $23,000,000 of excise and "nuisance" taxes be repealed.

That the bureau of internal revenue's advance opinions on tax liability for specific transactions be made binding when accepted by a taxpayer.

Kaukauna Cagers Hold Last Drill For Game Tonight

Practice Free Throws in Preparation for New London Tilt

Kaukauna—With the shooting of 50 or more free throws yesterday afternoon Coach Paul E. Little pronounced his cagers fit for their conference clash with New London on the Bulldogs' home floor tonight. The main clash will begin at 8 o'clock, with the B teams playing an hour earlier.

Holiday drills of the Kaukauna team have been featured by work on defensive play and free throwing. In the latter department of play inaccuracies have prevented the team from winning more than one contest. Against St. Mary's of Menasha only 7 of 18 were made, and against the Menasha Bluejays only 6 of 18 went through.

The squad did somewhat better in its last two tilts, sinking 9 of 16 against Shawano and 9 of 17 against the alumni. With each player having to make 50 every day the average of the squad has steadily improved from day to day. The first day in which records of successful free throws were kept the squad averaged 56 per cent, while yesterday in the last practice before tonight's game the squad averaged over 75 per cent. The best mark of the practice sessions was rung up by Tim McCarthy, who once needed only 61 attempts to make his 50 free throws.

Coach Little will start the same five men who have begun all of the Kaw games this season. Cliff Van-evenhoven and Bill Peterson, the team's leading scorers, will be at the forward posts. Bill Alger, lanky freshman center, Carl Giordana and Leland Lambie at guards complete the starting lineup. Tim McCarthy and Robert Grogan are substitutes who will get first call.

Health Officer Reports

City Free of Contagion

Boxers, Wrestlers Drill For Little Chute Match

Kaukauna—With the first match of the season scheduled for Feb. 1 with Little Chute, Kaukauna High school boxers and wrestlers are now working out daily under Coach Clifford H. Kemp. Norman Ashe and Clifford Fernal are manager and assistant manager of the squad.

Additional contests have been arranged with St. Mary's of Menasha and Neenah High schools. Kemp said, with prospects for other opponents good. A home and home series will be held with these three schools.

High school boxing is not the bruising professional type, Kemp explained. Its aim is to develop alertness and skill, with three 1-minute rounds being the limit of a bout. Boxers are required to have all equipment necessary for their protection, and gloves of at least 12 ounces must be worn.

No Punishing Holds Wrestling bouts will be of seven minutes length, and, if neither wrestler throws his opponent within that time, the bout will go the one with the time advantage. No punishing holds, such as half nelsons and scissors of any kind, are permitted.

Students out for wrestling are Joseph Regenfuss, James Brick, Gerald Verbeten, Leland Goldin, Leroy Thatcher, Floyd Thatcher, Robert Wodjenski, John Velte, and Mark Romanesko.

The latter gives a picture of the work of five major fields: agriculture, business, industry, home-making and the professions. THE POWER BEHIND THE PASSPORT

Although Lubianka Prison has not yet divulged with complete certainty the identity of "Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Robinson," the Americans with the spurious passport, the authorities have learned that regulations invoked to insure care in the issuance of passports were violated by New York's County Clerk Marinelli, lately resigned under fire from the new prosecutor Dewey.

Mr. Marinelli admits that he "was induced to approve" fraudulent passport applications by "one who wields political influence," which may be an ex-convict for that matter.

But the saturation of our entire system of government with evil and corruption is in effect the warning issued by this case, so far removed, so unimportant in itself, and yet so typical of the consequences to be expected from a certain class of public officeholders.

Marinelli was described as a good fellow. He had a heart for everyone in trouble. That is what they said but he obtained that reputation and the political influence that accompanied it by helping out crooks which isn't having very much heart for others. Dewey exposed him as using a fugitive from justice as his chauffeur and helping various bad men, some of them particularly bad, while they kept close to some hideout long enough for witnesses' memories to fade.

Marinelli, not to stress the case too far, is merely a somewhat conspicuous example of the officeholder who sells the functions of his office to the highest bidder or otherwise converts them as advantageously to himself as possible and therefore with every disadvantage to the public.

THE TREK FROM THE EAST

The Associated Press carried the statement early this week of John Ballentyne, Treasurer of the Philco Radio and Television Corporation, informing the Pennsylvania Legislative Industrial Tax Study Commission that the great laboratories of his company will be removed west into Michigan forthwith, and solely because of the suffocating taxes that Pennsylvania demands in order to pay the upkeep on its tremendous debts and to support its extravagant government.

No industrialist like Mr. Ballentyne ever contemplates such a step without grave concern. It means not only a heavy initial expense during the year of moving but endless confusion and annoyance for a considerable period of time thereafter.

Yet were the Wage-Hour Bill to pass would Philco have to move?

If congress forces Michigan men to charge enough per hour so as to offset Pennsylvania tax exactions then all competition between the states of a wholesome and legitimate nature will have ceased and we will have become static.

The matter, it seems to us, is of a good deal of importance to Wisconsin because our natural advantages and generally sound government, with a minimum of the corruption that has brought eastern states low, should place us, ordinarily, in the forefront of benefits to be received through the misdeeds of those who have befouled their own nests.

Yet the Wisconsin delegation in congress voted to set up a virtual Nero in this country in charge of wages and hours.

THE BOYCOTT OF JAP SILK

Senator Norris says that the boycott of silk stockings, a thrust at Japan, is a way in which "the women in America can defeat Japan without the firing of a gun." The senator with an eye to the artistic observed nevertheless that "cotton stockings are no way as attractive." Beyond that he did not express himself but it is well nigh certain he had in mind Mary Garden's famous expression that there was hardly anything so attractive as "a well shaped limb in a black silk stocking."

But, confining our boycott to the matter of business and eschewing the artistic or beautiful we must come to the conclusion, however much we try to shut our eyes to the facts, that boycotts are ordinarily worthless, most often injure greatly those who inaugurate them, and are best defined insofar as dependability is concerned as a broken live wire grotesquely hopping and flopping around in a busy district.

To racial elements disappointed or angry at other racial elements and to labor organizations, boycotts come nearly as easily as resolutions are passed at old settlers' clubs, and accomplish about as much good.

Ordinarily the boycott of a nation is next to useless unless it is joined by every other nation in which the boycotted country might sell goods, buy materials or gain credit.

If a silk boycott of Japan could be made effective in this country by getting the overwhelming majority of women to join up, a highly improbable, almost fantastic idea, it is far from even a probability that Japan would thus be defeated in her military exploits.

But here are some certainties. We would be putting 138,000 more workers into idleness because that is the number employed by our factories that make stockings and use raw silk extensively. Add to that many thousands more of other workers in many other plants who today have satisfactory jobs because this country is shipping to Japan about 300 million dollars worth of goods each year, and which goods are not munitions of war and are paid for through raw silk and other of her exports.

Unless a boycott is thoroughly planned, systematically continued and efficiently pressed with all the fervor of war, it develops boomerang characteristics and turns upon those who gave it birth the talons and the endearment of a culture.

WHAT PRICE CHRISTMAS?

Nazi Germany continues its relentless campaign to eliminate anything Christian or holy in the private lives of its citizens. The latest move was to rewrite the traditional Christmas carols to make them conform to the pagan "German Faith."

Some of Martin Luther's famous Christmas hymns were chief objects of attack. Luther and his movement, it seems, were not truly German.

What is probably the best known of all Christmas carols, "Silent Night," was altered to the point of being unrecognizable. From a beautifully soft incantation to one of the central features of the Christian religion, the Virgin Mother and Child, the carol was changed into an empty, hollow and unintelligible ditty about a winter's night with snowflakes dancing. The Virgin Mother became that trite and overworked non-entity, Mother Earth, and the grand conclusion in the final line was that "Life shall never end."

One German church organization had the audacity to point out that it would not be so bad if the revised versions were at all good, but that as they are the whole procedure becomes a farce.

When one recalls that almost all of the great church music which is used throughout the rest of the world today originated with such great German composers as Bach, Haydn, Mozart and Mendelssohn, it is difficult to understand the thought behind the present-day German religious movement, which is supposed to be the elimination of non-German elements from their religion.

In fact most thinking people will want to take exception to the last line of the Nazi "Silent Night." The logical conclusion seems to be that everything which is beautiful and spiritual and Christian in German life has already ended. Such values have been crucified, so to speak.

Opinions Of Others

PAROLE INDICTMENT

J. Edgar Hoover's renewed attack on state systems of paroling criminals is easily accounted for by his own statement that more than half of the persons arrested by agents of his bureau are at least second offenders. He said that "30 per cent of the 13,518 dangerous criminals listed in the federal bureau of investigation's single fingerprint file as the country's most desperate kidnappers, racketeers, hoodlums, bank robbers and extortioners show a record of having been paroled or granted other type of clemency" from one to ten times. It is quite natural that the bureau is critical of parole systems, for all its experience with the parole system is with parole violators. The paroled prisoner who makes good and wins a respected place in society never has any reason to become involved in crimes which are investigated by G-men.

Undoubtedly there is a large popular agreement with Hoover's opinion of the parole system. It is, however, the product of superficial observation. The trouble is not with parole, which is merely a method of enabling a prisoner to earn his conditional freedom by good conduct in prison, but with methods of administering parole laws. On several occasions the public sense of justice has been deeply outraged by disclosures that powerful politicians were awarding paroles for a financial consideration or as a political favor. When the control of parole grants falls into such hands there is a strong incentive to weaken the supervision of paroled prisoners, the object being to afford the beneficiaries of crooked paroles an opportunity to return unmolested to a life of crime.

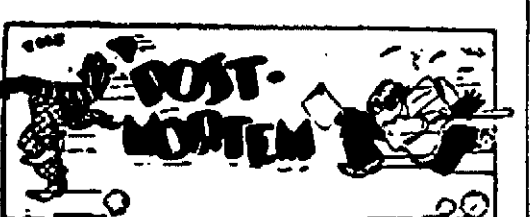

Today the federal government has a parole system which fully meets with the approval of Mr. Hoover and also of professional penologists. Several states likewise have drastically changed their parole laws to provide for adequate hearings prior to parole and for close and sympathetic supervision of paroled prisoners during the time they are kept under surveillance pending complete release. Indiana's new law authorizes an experiment in parole of far-reaching importance. This experiment is now under way and, except for a few instances of seemingly unjustified release of vicious criminals, is gaining public favor. As long, however, as the states are less successful in parole management than the federal government the people will be critical and at times even intolerant of the plan.—Indianapolis News.

Leading up to another matter: when is Mr. Farley going to start to work in his new job at the automobile factory?

And how carefully will the senate consider the president's next nomination to the Supreme Court, considering the small raised after the appointment of Hugo Black?

Unless the senators are less bright than we ever imagined there will be no great rush to confirm any appointee. Thirty of the boys have jobs to consider in November.

By the way, 1938 is unique in one respect, the president finally realized that people were aware of his gag about balancing the budget this year. He finally admitted it wouldn't be balanced.

A Verse for Today

WINTER GARDEN

I have a garden on a winter day,
Although my yard is white with frost and snow.
The north wind blows a gale; the clouds are gray.
But in my garden feathered blossoms glow.

Black, brown and crimson, and a flash of blue—
These are the shades that make my garden bright.
They bring me happiness the winter through,
Blooming so joyfully for my delight.

I scatter crumbs upon the frozen ground,
And there before my eyes my garden swarms
With joyous little birds who long have found
My yard a haven from the day's alarms.

Hugh G. Corbett, secretary of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce since its organization eight years ago, Friday presented his resignation to the board of directors to become secretary of the newly organized chamber of commerce at Kenosha. The resignation was accepted and a committee consisting of President R. K. Wolter and Directors T. E. Orsborn, H. C. Gelschow, W. O. Thiede and H. L. Davis, Sr., was appointed to make recommendations for Mr. Corbett's successor.

A check-up on city ordinances Thursday afternoon revealed that a city council resolution calling for a limitation of 90 minutes for parking in Appleton's downtown area, which Mayor A. C. Rule said was lost following a tie vote by the city council Wednesday night, is not dead because the mayor failed to cast the deciding vote. It will be brought up again Jan. 25.

SOURCES OF CO-ANOXIA

The shut-in housekeeper who is in "run down" condition in the spring, is not unlike suffering from chronic carbon monoxide anoxia from furnace, gas heater or kitchen range. A more common cause of headache, languor and debility than is generally considered is the stove or furnace in which coal is burned for heating dwelling, store, office or shop, especially when the fire burns with closed draft, when any part of the stove becomes red hot, or when there is a leak in flue or chimney. Escaping "coal gas" is usually odorous and irritating due to the sulphur compounds in it, but the deadly carbon monoxide in such gas is colorless, odorless, non-irritating, burns with a pale blue flame, and produces its harmful effect by combining with the hemoglobin of the blood and so crowding out oxygen. That is why this condition is called carbon monoxide anoxia.

Garage workers frequently suffer with vague "nervous trouble," if not headache, languor and pallor, from constant carbon monoxide anoxia. A hose attached to the exhaust and carried out of the shop is a great protection while a mechanic is working about a car with the engine running. The simple installation of exhaust fans will materially improve the health of garage employees in many shops.

Not only the mechanics but even office workers who are exposed to the shop atmosphere.

Miners, stokers, blast-furnace men, foundries, gasmakers, linemen working in conduits or underground mains, smelters, tailors and pressers, laundry-workers, book binders, printers, linotypers, electrotypers, bakers, brick-makers, porcelain enamelers, machine metal casters, solderers, bottle makers and charcoal burners are subject to acute or chronic anoxia from carbon monoxide.

Habitual or heavy smokers get considerable carbon monoxide in the tobacco smoke. Drs. Collins and Walsh found as high as 2 per cent of CO in cigarette smoke. Drs. Gettler and Mattice found a sharp rise in the blood content of CO in persons who had just smoked. Drs. Hanson and Hastings (these investigators, like life insurance agents and burglars, often come in pairs) found that normal persons who do not use tobacco have an average CO saturation of 1.5 per cent in the blood, and after smoking ten or fifteen cigarettes the blood shows from 3.1 per cent to 4.3 per cent saturation with carbon monoxide.

It is a well known fact that canaries, mice or other small animals, as well as infants or young children, are more sensitive to small amounts of carbon monoxide in the air than are larger animals or adults. A smoke laden atmosphere may make an infant seriously ill, although it is only disagreeable to an adult who is not accustomed to it.

The symptoms of tobacco smoke poisoning are strikingly like the symptoms of carbon monoxide anoxia—headache, throbbing, flushing, nausea, mental confusion, faintness.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Two seemingly unrelated news developments of recent days, when added together, make sense.

Japanese ships loaded with goods to be distributed in China docked at Shanghai and paid no duty to the Chinese government. What does that mean? Simply, that if Japan brings her own goods into China duty-free while other nations are compelled to pay duties, the other nations (including the United States) may be squeezed out of that market.

The second news event was President Roosevelt's statement at a press conference and in a letter to the house appropriations committee that the world situation was compelling him to give attention to the question of a bigger navy.

The President emphasized that he had not committed himself to more vessels than already are ordered but that "if" the situation warranted it, he would send to congress a supplementary request for more ships. Repeatedly he emphasized the "if."

The Big Stick

Diplomats know that the nation which can hit hardest gets the most attention. Roosevelt is aware of that. The other Roosevelt once said: "Speak softly, but carry a big stick."

Of course the President did not speak out his navy plans simply because he heard of the Japanese merchant ships landing duty-free cargoes in Shanghai. Those ships represented concretely what has been evident all along. That is, that the Japanese conquest may give Japan a lion's share of the oriental trade.

Ex-Marine General Smedley Butler and many another are insisting that the oriental trade is not worth the price it may cost to save it. You can argue on either side of that question.

Faster Merchant Ships

It might be interesting to know what the United States is doing now in a navy building way. Two 35,000-ton battleships at $60,000,000 apiece have been ordered. The navy has asked, and probably will be granted at once, two more. Altogether 11 have been authorized.

In addition, since 1934, four new aircraft carriers have been built or started, 17 heavy cruisers have been built and one is building. Nine light cruisers have been started and two more are authorized but not appropriated. Thirty destroyers have been built or are building and money appropriated for two more. Congress has authorized 40 additional destroyers, without yet appropriating. Twenty submarines have been built, or are building, and there is congressional authority without appropriations as yet, for 10 more.

But naval building is not the only way to strengthen the navy. The maritime commission has called for bids for 12 fast new freighters and is dickering with oil companies with a view to putting 12 fast new oil tankers on the ocean. The tankers will be fast enough—the navy is seeing to that—to keep up with the battle fleet, which needs oil.

LIKE HOUSEKEEPING

Washington—(7)—Running the national government is just like keeping house. Mrs. Dixie Bibb Graves, Alabama's junior senator, says so.

"Government is merely house-keeping on a big scale," she told an audience of Washington women. Observing that women are moving to the front in public affairs, Mrs. Graves said the nation's "house-keeping" should show improvement.

Old School Traditions Will Continue to Live In $1,000,000 Building

BY E. L. RISELX

Traditions of Appleton High school, some dating back over 30 years and others comparatively young, will be carried along with the student body when classes move into the new "million dollar" structure next fall.

The present high school building was erected in 1904 and its first class received diplomas in 1905. In 1925, the freshmen were transferred to the three junior schools and the building became a senior high school.

The 1938 class will be the last to graduate from the old building. The new building is expected to be completed about April 1 and will be ready for occupancy in September.

Traditions in a school reflect and develop school spirit and morale. They are generally full of purpose and meaning and usually have a sound reason for being. However, sometimes they outgrow their usefulness and are discarded to make way for new ones.

One of Appleton's discarded traditions which will probably be remembered by most of the old grads and sports fans was the Appleton-Marquette football game which was dropped in 1930. With unvarying consistency, the game always broke up in a row. One year the principal was hit on the head with a brick and another year the entire Appleton squad had to take refuge in Marquette fire barns.

Police Escort

Another incident in the "good old days" was when the team had to be escorted as far south as Peshigo by the Marquette police force after rabid rooters had pelted the bus with eggs and tomatoes. This situation finally led to dropping Marquette in football about seven years ago and finally, two years ago, to ousting the school from the Fox Valley conference.

Although there is no rule to that effect, it is recognized by students that no one drinks in the building. Principal H. H. Helble believes pupils imbibed more freely 25 years ago than now. He said the principal in those days had to oust inebriated pupils from classes several times a week. No discipline problem has been experienced in the last 15 years, even at high school dances, he said.

Another tradition that existed for about 15 years but was dropped ing, Thanksgiving day football games prevailed until 1930 and since that time the last football game is played on Armistice day, Nov. 11. Girl cheer leaders came into being at the school about 15 years ago.

Recess Dropped

Before 1920, students had a great time during free periods. No roll call was taken and students could leave the building at will. Roll call was started in 1920. A 15 minute recess in the morning and afternoon also was dropped in 1920.

Other traditions include presentation of a senior memorial to the school by each graduating class, presentation of the Craftsmanship award, the annual senior play and the half off rule in the building.

Traditions in the making but not yet firmly established because of their youth are the annual Armistice day football game, assembly leucums, student activities finance plan, senior commencement hop, reception for ninth grade girls, annual choral Christmas concert and the student handbook.

Labor Board Reports Work Is Speeded Up

Washington—(AP)—The national labor relations board said Thursday in its second annual report that "an increasing number of employers have come to realize it is best to accept board rulings without opposition."

"As resistance decreases and its work is speeded up," the report added. "The board expects that formal proceedings, now necessary in many cases, will be replaced by informal and rapid adjustment of complaints."

The board said it had disposed of 1,429 cases in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1937, in 446 of which strikes were in progress.

Neillsville Judge Is Head of Association

Milwaukee—(AP)—Circuit Judge Emory W. Crosby, of Neillsville, was elected chairman of the state board of circuit judges at the closing session of the annual meeting of the court house Wednesday.

Judge Crosby, who was formerly vice chairman, succeeds Judge Edgar V. Werner, of Appleton.

Judge August C. Hoppmann, of Madison, was named vice chairman.

Social Security Rate 1 Per Cent

Payments Same as Last Year; Reports on Quarterly Basis

Payments for both employee and employer under the federal old age security plan will remain at 1 per cent during 1938, Postmaster Stephen Balliet pointed out today.

"During the last few days several persons have called and inquired about this year's rate. Under the plan which was started a year ago, the payments will stay at 1 per cent for the first three years."

Companies will no longer have to make their reports each month, Balliet said. Beginning with the new year, the payments will be sent to the collector of internal revenue at Milwaukee each quarter, that is, in January, April, July and October.

The checkup which is made by the Milwaukee office on the reports will also come each quarter instead of each six months as was practiced last year.

Drops Cigaret, Burns Hair Off His Chest

Indianapolis—(AP)—A slip of the lip cost hairy-chested Henry Blunk, 27, second-degree burns and a trip to the hospital.

Blunk forgot he had a lighted cigarette in his mouth and yawned. The cigarette fell inside his open shirt collar and set fire to the hair on his chest.

Christmas Is Late For Peshigo Boy

Peshigo, Wis.—(AP)—This is a Christmas story, a little late perhaps, but not too late to stop a small boy's heartbreak.

A teacher asked her youngsters whether they enjoyed their vacations, and if they received many gifts. Followed then the usual childish braggings of Santa's generosity. All had a happy time—except one small boy.

While the others babbled of their gifts, salty tears started in his eyes. His head dropped to his desk and he cried bitterly. He had received nothing. There was tragedy amid the plenty in Peshigo.

But before the day was over, the tears had dried and his face was a study of joy. His schoolmates showered him with gifts. He no longer believes in Santa, but his faith in his fellow mortals probably will be forever unshaken.

Completes Layout on Gardner Dam Folder

Russell Spoor, a member of the camp promotion committee of the valley council, has completed work on the layout for the Gardner Dam camp folder. Walter Dixon, scout executive, reported today.

The names of the new summer camp staff members will appear in the pamphlet which will go to press in about two weeks. The names of the new camp leaders, including that of a camp doctor, will be announced soon.

Assessments Under '99
Ruling are Withdrawn

Sheboygan—(AP)—Democratic National committeeman C. E. Broughton, Sheboygan, said Thursday he had received notice the treasury department has withdrawn the assessments of ad valorem penalties and suggestions of offers in compromise imposed by the alcohol tax division on owners of joint dance halls and taverns who dispense liquor over two bars.

Broughton said the government's action will assure a saving of approximately $80 to each person affected.

Tavernkeepers complained to Broughton and United States Senator F. Ryan Duffy that the imposition of taxes, ad valorem penalties and offers in compromise under a ruling of the internal revenue department in 1899 did not become known to them until October, 1937. They protested that they had adhered strictly to the law as it was known to them and claimed that the assessment of penalties and offers in compromise was therefore unfair.

Greeks Have New System Of Rushing

LAWRENCE college fraternities will not begin rushing next fall with the traditional Sunday afternoon open house as a result of a decision made recently by the Interfraternity council. The Sunday "walk-around," as it is called on the campus, will be replaced by six full-length compulsory dates, one with each fraternity for each rushee, followed by three optional dates.

It is claimed that the new method will eliminate hasty and prejudiced choices and reduce the number of misfits in each group. Perry Peterson, Rapid River, Mich., who introduced the new proposal, said he believed Jewish entertainment would not be necessary under the new system, reducing fraternity expense and at the same time giving freshmen a better basis for making selections.

Robert Durbrow, assistant to the dean, Robert Arthur, Geneva, Ill., and Dan Murphy, Appleton, are preparing a new interfraternity handbook.

Lawrence college's second annual interfraternity ball, sponsored to help finance the sending of delegates to the interfraternity convocation in New York City, will take place Jan. 22 at the new Alexander gymnasium. The affair is being given under the auspices of the Interfraternity council, with John Schmeiren, Neenah, in charge of arrangements.

New pledges of Delta Gamma sorority are Miss Virginia Cole, Wausau, and Miss Davida Kerr, Chicago.

In addition to the two fraternity formal Saturday night, there will be two fraternity radio parties. Delta Tau Delta's "depression" formal and the radio dance which pledges of Delta Sigma Tau fraternity are giving for the active chapter and alumni and their dates. Each group is entertaining at its fraternity house.

Name State Official of B. P. Clubs

ANNOUNCEMENT of the appointment of Miss Josephine Hingen as special representative of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women for the state of Wisconsin was made Thursday by Miss Lena Madson Phillips of New York, international president. Appointment of these international representatives, of whom there will be one in each state, is made with the approval and concurrence of the state president, who in this instance is Miss Marie K. Franzen of Wauwatosa.

Duties of the international representatives are to acquaint the clubs throughout the state with the work of the international federation, to assist in the arrangement of programs for the observance of International night on Feb. 25, and to stimulate interest and membership in the international federation, which was founded by the national federation of the United States in 1930 and now has branches in 25 countries.

Miss Hingen has been keenly interested in international affairs for a period of years, that interest having expressed itself in frequent trips to Europe and also to Canada, Hawaii, Alaska and Panama. She accompanied three of the goodwill tours sent to Europe by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs while the international federation was in the process of formation, and went again with the goodwill tour in 1931 to attend the first international congress of the organization in Vienna, serving as publicity director of that tour. She has visited 16 European countries, Scandinavia, Finland, Russia and Poland among them.

She is at present chairman of international relations for the Business and Professional Women's Club of La Crosse and has previously served as vice president, director and chairman of the public relations committee. She has been a member of the board of directors of the Wisconsin State Federation.

4 Fined on Charge on Fishing Law Violation

Waupeca — Among the arrests made by George Whalen, conservation warden, during December were those of four Menasha men who were fishing for pickerel on the Wolf river near Fremont. They were Fred Lehman, Fred Dohms, Arnold Brown and Gerald Kiefer, who were arrested with 37 pickerel, 27 of them allegedly under legal size (18 inches).

Appearing later before Justice S. W. Johnson of Waupeca where they pleaded guilty to the charge of catching fish of illegal size, they paid a fine of $166 and costs.

Elder Schoenrock, Manawa youth, was charged with shooting a pheasant during the closed season when he was arraigned before Justice William Sebald of that village. He was fined $50 and costs and his gun was confiscated. The fine was later suspended. He lost all rights to hunting, fishing and trapping for a period of one year.

Norman Bucholtz and Ferdinand Lang, both of Tustin, were arrested Dec. 31 by the warden who saw them setting 27 lines before dark and looking at them early in the morning. They were arraigned before Justice Fred Taylor of Watou where they pleaded guilty to the charge and paid a fine of $25 and costs.

These officers will appoint others for the coming year sometime before the installation which will be held in two weeks.

Officers of the United Commercial Travelers auxiliary were entertained Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Ward Swartz, 1029 W. Harris street. Cards were played, and prizes were won by Mrs. Nellie Carey, Elizabeth Krueger and Mrs. Myrtle Helbing.

Plans for the annual party in honor of the retiring matron of Fidelity chapter, Order of Eastern Star, to be held Feb. 3 were made at the meeting of Past Matrons of Eastern Star last night at the home of Mrs. J. P. Purves, 520 N. Bateman street. Mrs. James B. Wagg and Mrs. Earl Weitemann were chosen to select the place for the party.

Alderman Raps Growing Relief Costs but Council Approves Month's Bills

Waupeca — Relief bills for December aggregating more than $1,000, authorized by members of the finance committee and presented to the council for approval at the regular meeting Tuesday evening, caused much consternation among that body. Alderman Willys Holmes jumped to his feet immediately following a motion by a brother alderman to allow payment of the bills saying, "I would like to make a few remarks but there is not much use—you will all vote 'aye' and have an alibi. We could save plenty—but what good does it do to talk? Here are four aldermen who will O.K. the bills. All I can say is that I am not satisfied."

Mayor F. R. Fisher replied: "You are warranted in your remarks; I am only surprised that you did not make them stronger."

City relief bills of $1,077.78 were nearly double those of the previous month while transient relief of $454.48 was also considerably higher than for November.

The bills eventually were approved unanimously.

Approval of the council was given to the recommendation of the finance committee that a series of band concerts be given during the summer as has been done in the past. With an appropriation of $1,200 from the city, the suggestion was made that the band officers solicit additional funds from the business men to aid the organization. Rehearsals for the series of 10 concerts will start immediately under the direction of Ernest Weber, manager and director. The concerts will begin the second or third Thursday in June and in case of rain notice will be given by the director not later than 5 o'clock until a later date. The city will make its payments to the band on the tenth of each month, $75 in January and February; $100 in March, April and May; $250 in June, July and August.

The council approved the advancement of $15,000 to the county. Lester Laux was elected by the council as alderman for the Fourth ward, to succeed Roy Rasmussen.

It is understood that Rasmussen, a contractor, resigned in order to be in a position to enter a bid on the new school project. Laux was nominated by Alderman Einar Torsell, Alderman Holmes seconding the nomination. As there were no further nominations, the roll was called and Laux was elected to complete the unexpired term of Rasmussen.

City Clerk W. J. Nelson announced a few errors in claims in the collection of taxes. L. W. Johnson refuses to pay 25 cents for snow removal, saying that no snow was ever shoveled by the city on his premises. His taxes cannot be paid until the matter is settled. Charles Jacobson, former owner of Third Ward tavern, on which no taxes were paid last year, claimed that the tavern was sold two years ago. Mrs. Amelia Winegarden said her property does not border Elm street, and she refused to pay $12.40 for assessments on that street.

Utility Hearing Jan. 15
The council was informed that the Waupeca utility valuation case will be heard before Judge A. C. Hoppmann Jan. 15. Waupeca officials had expected that this case would be heard sooner but the retirement of Judge Hoppmann for two months to prepare a decision in the Wisconsin Telephone company's injunction suit against the state public service commission delayed the hearing. Judge A. C. Reis, of the Second Dane county circuit court branch, disqualified himself from hearing the case because of his former connection as chief counsel for the public service commission.

The Wisconsin Public Service corporation, which owns the Waupeca utility property, has appealed a commission valuation of $225,000 for the property which Waupeca voters decided to buy in a municipal ownership election three years ago. Reis was in the employ of the state body when the Waupeca valuation was made.

The purchase price of the utility without the high line, was fixed at $225,000 and the high line at another $65,000. Because of severance damages the utility company has appealed the decision of the state commission. Waupeca enters into the question as neither plaintiff nor defendant.

The problem has been raised as to the ability of the city of Waupeca to finance the utility on earnings bonds, but upon learning that West Superior had made arrangements with a bonding house at a low rate of interest to take $60,000 in bonds on a plant that cost $500,000, Mayor F. R. Fisher is convinced that, considering the high credit ranking of this city, Waupeca can handle the purchase with comparative ease.

Boasts Recession Not Getting Best of State

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington — Wisconsin people are jittery, but they are not letting the present recession get them down, in the words of Congressman Gardner R. Withrow of La Crosse.
"Business people in Wisconsin are looking over the situation with the result that they see nothing tangible as far as a recession is concerned," Withrow said.
"Banks are in good shape, there are no floods or other similar great misfortunes, and people are not getting seriously worried," he added.

Best Suit Not Even Mentioned

BY ELY CULBERTSON

It is a remarkable fact that often, in the search for the correct final contract, the best suit is not even mentioned. In a recent eight table duplicate game in Crockford's club, New York, where the standard of play is certainly above average, only one North-South pair reached the correct final bid. All the others mistakenly pinned their faith to the higher trick value, but much lower flexibility, of no trump.

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

SOUTH

The bidding at several tables was as follows:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	2 spades	Pass
2 diamonds	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

At other tables South bid only one spade over one diamond. North then rebid two diamonds and South next jumped to three spades. This turned out no better, since North's next action was to bid three no trump, and South retired from further bidding.

The top score team took quite a different view of the matter. In this case the bidding went:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	4 clubs	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	5 no trump	Pass
6 diamonds	Pass	7 clubs	Pass
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

Having located the two aces in South's hand, North chose to bid six diamonds rather than six clubs, as a combination small slam bid and grand slam "try." North felt that if South had the ace and one or two other diamonds he would pass to six diamonds, which, of course, would be quite satisfactory. If he had the blank ace he would go to seven clubs, which would be equally so.

Obviously the grand slam in clubs was made without difficulty, the diamond king being easily ruffed away.

From a purely academic viewpoint it usually is correct to rebid a six card suit before showing a four card suit. But, in this case, North took the sensible view that it surely could do no harm to show his respectable club suit before rebidding his longer but anemic diamond suit.

Know Your Physical Qualities

BY ELSIE PIERCE

Forgetting the more complicated components of feminine charm, let's look at the purely physical side today. The best way to start a self-beautifying campaign is:

First—know your good points and those not so good. Know precisely what it is you wish to correct.

Second—If beauty aids will help you, determine precisely what are the best aids for your particular needs. Head straight to the counter where these are obtainable. Don't let anything cause you to detour. Don't let anyone tempt you to try something as kooky. If your skin is dry and you know you need cream, don't experiment with an astringent no matter how deliciously it smells or how wonderfully Cousin Cynthia's skin is acting up under its influence. The only thing that matters on YOUR beauty campaign is YOU—your skin, your hair, your needs and therefore your beauty aids.

Third—find out the best way of using these best beauty aids for YOU.

Fourth—and use them faithfully, consistently, regularly. Remember that persistence pays dividends. Don't try it twice and forget about it. Don't collect a lot of idle jays and bottles. Don't flit from one preparation to another.

If you are at all in doubt, write me your problem—the condition of your skin, or if you can't judge it, describe it to me, your hair, your coloring, your figure. I shall be happy to help you.

A Daily Program

Above all, remember that a definite, daily program devoted to beauty is the surest short-cut to loveliness. A half hour a day will have a cumulative benefit at the end of a month. You'll look young and lovely longer if you follow a regular routine. You'll find that consistent, well-planned effort will bring with it consistent results, while, even if lengthy, frantic, occasional treatment fails.

And it's easy now to choose make-up that's becoming, make-up that's correct and make-up that matches. Choose your powder, rouge, lipstick, eye shadow and mascara by the color of your eyes.

My "Beauty Schedule" should help you, no matter what your beauty problem. It will help you plan your daily routine for beauty's sake. Send self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope for it... and ask for my "Health Rules" too.

Life in Ancient Egypt

Y-HUNTING IN ANCIENT EGYPT

One of the pastimes of ancient Egypt was hunting. When the hunter was rich, he went forth on horseback or in a chariot—with servants in his party to carry the game. On either side of the Nile valley were wooded hills where all sorts of wild animals roamed and found their food.

Hunting with lions

The weapons were spears and bows and arrows. The arrows were tipped with copper, bronze or iron, and had feathers to make them fly straight.

With the hunting party, goat-skins filled with water were carried, as well as jars of wine and baskets of bread and meat. The rich hunter did not wish to depend upon game for food while out on a sporting trip.

Reaching a country where it was hard to travel by horseback or in chariots, the hunters tied their steeds and went forward on foot. Dogs, which hunted singly or in pairs, helped to round up the game.

A few Egyptians owned lions, which had been brought up from the days when they were cubs. These lions were tame toward the masters, but toward wild beasts they were a terror. Many deer were killed by lions which sprang upon them and caught them for the masters.

Among the smaller animals hunted by the Egyptians were the hare and the fox. Wild oxen, wild goats, and leopards were brought down from time to time. There were no elephants near Egypt; but some hunters journeyed far to the south to trap and kill those mighty beasts.

Flocks of wild geese and ducks used to visit the marshes near either bank of the Nile. Egyptians with bows and arrows would often go out to hunt them. Sometimes a "throwing stick" was used to strike the bird while it was swimming in the water or struggling to fly free of tall reeds growing in the marsh. Nets were used to catch ducks and geese alive and unharmed. These fowls were tamed and were raised in many Egyptian farm-yards.

Some Egyptians trained monkeys to do useful work. In one picture we find them picking figs. One monkey seems to be eating a fig—he must have felt that a monkey was "worthy of his hire."

Child Training Should Be Rich in Experiences

BY ANGELO PATRI

"How shall I train my children for the future?" That question is asked by every father and mother in the world. What can be done to insure that the children will find themselves fit and able to make their way successfully in the lifetime ahead of them?

There is nobody wise enough to say. The future is a secret. Life is a process of change. The work that one generation found useful and necessary is not needed by the succeeding generation, for it has been altered by new discoveries so as to be almost unrecognizable. There are few philosophies that function as well today as in their own day, few industries and arts and sciences that have not changed greatly. Few of our customs and habits have not been altered. What has happened to us is likely to happen to the next generation. There is no certainty save in death, and even that is questioned.

My experience with young people would teach me to help them to get as wide a culture, as rich a background, in the field of their gifts, as can be managed. If a child is scientifically minded give him all he can take in that field in the hope of equipping him with varied experiences that he can turn this way and that as need demands. If he is hand-minded, do the same. Keep his training as varied as possible and his culture as wide as his intelligence and experiences will allow.

The people who suffer during severe upheavals in the accustomed ways are those who are specialized, whose minds and bodies have been set in a fixed routine. The one whose mind and body have been kept flexible, ready to make adjustments, take in new ideas and make new motions, do not suffer as much.

What about the great group of those who have no particular bent? Those who cannot get beyond the grade set by law as the minimum? What about those who cannot learn a trade, or a profession, or specialize in even the easiest form of labor? They have to be trained and fitted into the working scheme.

The public school should put more power and thought on teaching children to be useful and self-helpful than they do. When we find a child who shows clearly his incapacity for book lessons, instead of making his life miserable with drills and tests and special instruction in the work he cannot do it would be better to let him do the minimum book work he can do and devote his time to learning useful occupations.

And here I would like to ask that every big city and town in the country set aside schools to train municipal workers. Teach Sanitation and train the staff from sweepers to department heads. Teach Public Health and train the staff from visiting nurses to medical chiefs. Lift public service to a unified efficiency by making the holding of any public office or place dependent upon a diploma issued by a city-owned school.

That would take care of young people who cannot find their way alone. The rest will be taken up by industry, institutions, private employers, and charities. Meantime, make all education in the lower schools rich in experiences. The book-workers can take care of themselves because society provides well for them. It is time to lift the curse of the others and make room for them.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

When you wish to make gravy or soup with the water in which meat has been cooked, wring a cloth out in cold water and strain the liquor through it. No grease will go through.

A small window may be made to look larger by setting the curtain rods beyond it: casing on each side and using the draperies of a material heavy enough so that the lighting will not be seen through the material.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

RULES FOR TABLE SERVICE

Dear Mrs. Post: I am employed as general companion in a family consisting of grandmother, son and daughter-in-law and their four young children. This position was offered me after I had nursed in the family several times. I take my meals with the family, even when there are guests, and sometimes I am asked to fill in at big dinner parties. At all times, without fail, I am served last. Of course, I don't mind in the least when we are alone or have just a few guests, but I do find it most embarrassing to have attention, which I think unnecessarily pointed, called to my social status at table. I feel that I should at least be served before the men. I would appreciate having your point of view expressed on my answer: Since you live in the family and are therefore not a guest it would be proper, of course, that the grandmother be served before you and the daughter-in-law. If the son carves at the table, and no guests are present, he would serve his mother first and then you sometimes, and then his wife sometimes. If guests are present, the guests would be served before either you or his wife. You should certainly be served before the children and before any men who are present. If no serving is done on the table, then you would be served in order in which you happen to sit: women guests first and then on around the table to the right. If you were sitting next to her, you would be served second. If you were on the opposite side of the table, you would be served in your turn just as every one else is. But to deliberately put you last is unbelievably rude and also unkind to the part of the family.

Dear Mrs. Post: Does a table setting always include knives? In other words, when knives are not needed is it wrong to set the places without them?

Answer: In a formal house, yes. That is, in a house where never less than four places are set at table, those four places are always set with a knife, fork and a spoon, or a knife and two forks and a small spoon, or perhaps only a knife and fork. But if you merely set as many places as are to be occupied, then you would put at each place only such implements as will be necessary. Since table setting rules are occupied with only the formal pattern, the question of whether you put the single fork and no other implement at the right or left is optional. My preference is to put it at the left where it naturally belongs but if you prefer to put it at the right, the disagreement with the rule is no greater than that of putting the napkin let us say, at the left or above the plate. According to formal pattern, the napkin belongs on the service plate, the forks belong at the left, the knives and spoons to the right.

Mates Sometimes Fight Because They Enjoy It

BY DOROTHY DIX

A man who has just been celebrating his golden wedding anniversary, and who used the occasion to expound his theories about how to handle the various situations that arise in marriage, asserted that the best way to stop a domestic quarrel is for the husband to put on his hat and leave the house.

The proof of the pudding is in chewing the string, as the old proverb says, and a man who is the battle-scarred veteran of an authority on the subject. Nevertheless, one doubts the efficacy of his theory. No doubt his plan is good as far as it goes, for it is obviously impossible for a woman to keep on talking back to a husband who isn't there, but it is the philosophy of defeatism and one suspects it would only appeal to the he-picked husbands who are afraid of their wives' tongues, anyway.

Of course, it is true "that he who fights and runs away will live to fight another day," but why postpone to the future the joy of having it out right now and there over why the husband always has to hire a platinum blonde stenographer, or the price of the wife's new hat, when both have put on their fighting clothes and are all worked up for a good scrap?

Nor is there any need for a husband and wife to break off a quarrel right in the middle by one quitting cold for fear they will exhaust the subject under dispute. There are ten million things left for them to disagree about. And if by chance these should give out, they can always dig up an old bone of contention. There are husbands and wives who fight from the altar to the grave over religion, politics, smoking in the house, or whether the breakfast egg should be fried on one side or both.

Moreover, any advice about how to stop a quarrel between husbands and wives is superfluous because they don't want it stopped. They quarrel because they get a kick out of it; because it puts pep into the somewhat flavorless dish of matrimony; because it stirs their blood and makes them feel alive and fierce; and good. If you don't believe this, note the fact that after husbands and wives have had a perfect peach of a fight in which they have reviled and insulted each other and said every mean and cruel thing to each other that they could think of, they generally end it up with kisses instead of Reno, and no harm done to the domestic structure. Not a brick loosened.

If further proof were needed that sniping with each other is the favorite indoor amusement of husbands and wives, you would find it in the incontestable fact that there probably never was a family row that could not have been avoided by the use of the slightest degree of tact or commonsense or self-control. Every husband and wife knows what is the fighting word to each other, but that doesn't keep them from using it. It just gives them a tip on how to start something.

They know what topics are as good for a set-to as a nickel is for a ginger cake, but does that make them walk high, wide and handsome around these forbidden subjects? No indeed. It makes them drag them in by the head or the heels and pass a pleasant evening exchanging animosities and recriminations about each other's families and personal habits and peculiarities.

Whether or not the home-made quarrel, like home cooking, has a finer flavor than anything one gets abroad, has never been scientifically determined. One would say on a venture, though, that there is something more satisfying about it, something that appeals more to the general taste, for it is observable that people who will go to all manner of trouble to avoid controversy

SUNS AFTER SWIM

sies with their bosses, their friends, their acquaintances and even strangers provoke disagreements with members of their families.

The woman, for instance, who yesses her employer and tells him what an oracle he is, no-noes her husband and does not disguise from him that she thinks he is a nitwit. The man who palavers over every other woman and tells her how beautiful she is; who listens to his dinner partner's views on literature, art and politics as if he were hanging on the words of a seeress, tells his wife that she is getting old and fat, and that she doesn't know what she is talking about. And the fight is on.

So, taking all of these vagaries of the domestic quarrel into consideration, we reach the inescapable conclusion that husbands and wives fight because they enjoy fighting, and there is no way to stop 'em.

KEEP FLAVORS SEPARATED

Always store leftover vegetables in separate dishes in the refrigerator. Even though they are to be combined later, the flavors will be better.

Here are six nice vegetable plate combinations: (1) Broccoli with Hollandaise sauce, beets, banana fritters, green beans; (2) creamed eggs on toast, cheese-stuffed celery, buttered spinach; (3) poached eggs in spinach nests, browned eggplant fingers, creamed onions; (4) corn souffle with creamed mushrooms, spiced beets, asparagus, pickles; (5) broiled tomatoes on cheese toast, creamed carrots and turnips, spiced pear; (6) creamed peas, mashed squash, French fried potatoes, buttered beets.

Often, after serving a platter of assorted cheeses, you have a few unappetizing-looking odds and ends left over. Wrap each kind separately in waxed paper, cover them and store them in the refrigerator. They will come in handy for salad, sandwich or canape mixtures or for dressing toast or crackers served with soups. Milder cheeses add a pleasing flavor to vegetable, meat or fish sauces.

Remember, only crisp crackers or wafers should be served with soups, salads or cheese. Often crackers in a fresh box need reheating for five minutes in moderate oven.

Six-pound pork 3 tablespoons lard
1 teaspoon salt 1 cup boiling water
4 teaspoon paprika 7 peeled sweet potatoes

Wipe off pork with damp cloth. Fit into small roaster and sprinkle with seasonings and flour. Bake for ten minutes in a moderate oven. Lower heat. Add water and bake for one hour more, basting frequently. Add potatoes. Bake another hour. (Turn potatoes to allow even browning.)

Salt should never be added to stews, soups and boiled meats until after they're cooked. If put in at first it toughens the fibre of the meat and takes out the juices.

Medical Science Lengthening Life Of Average Person

16 Years Added to Span
During Last 25 Years,
Doctors Claim

Madison — "Sixteen years have been added to the average person's life during the last twenty-five years," advises the state medical society in its first health release for the new year.

"In 1911 the average person lived to the age of forty-one years. In 1933 the average person lived to the age of fifty-seven years. Average age at death should not be confused with life expectancy. The average age at death is determined by adding all the years lived by all who died during any year, and dividing the sum by the total deaths, while life expectancy is the estimated length of life ahead of a child at birth. Life expectancy in Wisconsin is now many years longer than the present average age at death. Our life expectancy, based on a life table recently prepared, is now 61.5 years for males and 64.6 years for females. This means that male children now being born may be expected to live 61.5 years on the average, while female children now being born may be expected to live 64.6 years on the average.

"These added years of life have been secured through the tremendous advances made in the science of medicine in the prevention and treatment of disease. Such diseases as diabetes, anemia, lock jaw, typhoid fever, diphtheria, small pox, and whooping cough, formerly claimed a high percentage of their victims.

"Today with the improved skill in diagnosis, diabetes can be discovered early and treatment instituted which will permit a victim of this disease to live a normal life and a normal span of years. "As a result of the discoveries and recent perfecting made in the treatment of pernicious anemia, a victim of this disease may live and enjoy a normal life. It is not as hopeless a disease as it was once considered.

"Scientific research has produced a specific remedy for syphilis and if treated persistently over a period of time, the danger of transmitting this disease is removed. If the infected person continues the treatment as prescribed by the physician, a high percentage of cures can be obtained. The use of a group of drugs known as 'arsphenamines' has produced remarkable results in the treatment and cure of this disease.

"Cancer, if recognized and treated early, can be cured in a large percentage of cases by surgery, x-ray, and radium. Effective weapons are in the hands of physicians to prevent such diseases as small pox, diphtheria, whooping cough, and typhoid fever.

"Life is something to look forward to with the constant advances which are being made in the diagnosis, treatment, and prevention of disease."

SATURDAY'S GAMES
Knox at Ripon.
Monmouth at Coe.

SHOWING considerably more drive and confidence since its struggle with the alumni squad last Monday evening, Lawrence college basketball team will clash with Knox college here at the gymnasium at 8 o'clock this evening. There will be a preliminary game featuring the freshmen squads starting at 6:45.

Knox comes here with pretty much the same squad that performed last season, and is hoped to finish among the first four in the Midwest conference. It will have a tall team which handles the ball well and which has scored one Midwest victory, a 31 to 26 decision over Cornell.

Last year Lawrence played the Siwashers on a trip into Illinois. It was the trip which saw Cliff Burton left at home and Lawrence took a trimming by a 10-point margin, more or less.

Coach Arthur C. Denney has been a little more pleased with his progress during the last few days as they developed drive for the hoop and seem to be finding the rim with more consistency. Against St. Norbert, before the holidays, they were missing altogether too often but showed better against the alumni and have improved since.

Denney has altered his offense to make up for the center difficulties and he hopes that it will show results this evening. He has nominated Wallace Cape to start at forward along with Cliff Burton. Cape's shooting has improved consistently and he has the necessary drive and stamina. Burton's ability seldom has been questioned and he's definitely slated to remain a forward.

At the guards, Ken Buesing will pair with Faleide. Both men have all kinds of speed and while Buesing is only a sophomore he'll be able to hold his own against any opponent. His drives at the hoop against the alumni were indications of his improved offensive play. Faleide's shooting hasn't been up to his last season's efforts but he should start hitting with regularity soon.

Herzog or Masterson will start at center. Kapp apparently has been in a slump and until he shakes himself out of it Herzog and Masterson are getting the preference. Neither has much variety experience but they've been handling themselves well and fitting into the attack. Crawford is the most likely guard replacement and Jackson the most likely forward replacement.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS
Fox River 36, Town Taxi 19.
Wire Works 25, Y.M.C.A. 21.
Lutz Ice Co. 35, Merchants 29 (overtime).

FOX RIVER PAPER company cagers kept their state clean in City-Y.M.C.A. basketball competition by defeating Town Taxi, 36-19, in one of three league games played at the Y.M.C.A. last night. Wire Works took Y.M.C.A. down a peg with a 25 to 21 victory and Lutz Ice company moved out of the undefeated class with a 35 to 29 overtime win against Appleton Merchants.

The first quarter of the Fox River-Town Taxi tilt looked like a real battle but the 1937 champions started piling up points in the second quarter and their lead was never threatened. The first quarter ended with Fox River leading, 5-3, but at halftime they were leading 20 to 8. Both squads scored two points in the third quarter.

Arnold was the big gun of the Fox River attack with twelve points on four buckets and four charity tosses while Kelly, Grieshaber and Wanger each had three baskets for six points apiece. Ehlike led the losers with six baskets and one free throw for thirteen points.

Wire Works picked up a big lead in the early part of the game against Y.M.C.A. and it proved a winning factor when the Y rallied in the second half. Near the end of the final period the score was tied at 21-all after Wire Works had led by the following scores at the end of the first three playing periods: 8-2, 15-5 and 20-16.

Ken Slattery and Bill Lesselyong hooped baskets to break the tie and win the game just before the final whistle. Lesselyong headed the scoring list with four baskets and two gift shots for ten points while Slattery potted three baskets and two free throws for eight points. Lutz Ice company defeated the Merchants, 35 to 29, in the last game of the evening. The score at the end of the regulation period was 27 all after Lutz Ice company had led during the entire contest. Rapid fire baskets by Klues, Jewel and Wettengel won the game for the ice men.

Overtime Tilt
Lutz cagers held a 6 to 4 advantage at the end of the first quarter and 13 to 8 at halftime. The score stood 23 to 14 for Lutz at the end of the third stanza. Klues of the Lutz plunked five baskets for ten points to lead the Lutz scoring while Jewel, Lutz, scored four baskets and one gift shot for nine points. Hoffman of the Merchants tied Klues with ten points on four baskets and two free throws.

Bear Creek High Quits Grid Loop; To Play 6-Man Game

Marion—The Tri-County Football conference lost a member the past week when Bear Creek decided to play 6-man football instead of the regular game. The small enrollment in their school was the deciding factor.

Although a member was lost the conference gained a new member when Omro was readmitted to the league.

Bear Creek's schedule in the conference is as follows:
Sept. 30—Marion at Omro.
Oct. 21—Omro at Manawa.
Oct. 28—Kimberly at Omro.
A Pulaski-Omro game has not been scheduled. It is thought Moineau will join the league soon. It now plays Marion and Manawa.

A.A.U. Planning Heavy Program for Track Stars

BY DAN FERRIS
(Secretary-Treasurer, National A. A. U.)

NEW YORK—Spurred on by prospects of heavy foreign competition, America's track and field athletes may set an even faster pace in 1938 than they did a year ago when seven world records were broken by United States standard-bearers.

Opportunity for travel in foreign countries is one of the chief incentives for athletes to remain in competition and, if present plans materialize, more American track and field stars than ever before in a non-Olympic year, will compete abroad this summer.

Boom Gantenbein For Penn Grid Post

Green Bay Packer's Star
End Backed for Coaching Job

Philadelphia, Pa.—Strong backing was being developed today for Milt Gantenbein, star end of the Green Bay Packers, for the post of head coach of football at the University of Pennsylvania. Harvey Harman, the former incumbent, quit two weeks ago after a disastrous season and differences with alumni factions. The job pays $7,500 a year.

Writing in the Philadelphia Bulletin today, Sports Editor C. T. Peterman, who is a Penn alumnus, suggested the university authorities might find the man they were seeking in the pro football ranks. Peterman then nominated Gantenbein for the post.

It is believed that Peterman is sounding out opinion here and seeking to determine the reaction of Penn alumni.

He wrote in part: "Take Milt Gantenbein, who this year was one of the four best ends in the league, as example. Still a powerhouse in the Green Bay Packers' line, he retired this fall to accept a coaching position in a Wisconsin high school. If Cal Hubbard, who played next to Milt for years and is today one of the better American league baseball umpires, knows anything, Milt Gantenbein could coach football at any college and bring the grads and students alike cheering to their feet."

The Chishlers won two games from the Razers and maintained a 4-game margin in the league. Streubing hit a 214 game and 509 total and led the Razers while Gruett's 537 was tops for the winners.

Cut Cub Spring Drills To One Practice Daily

Chicago—The Chicago Cubs this spring will adhere to a program of one thorough drill each day instead of morning and afternoon workouts.

Manager Charley Grimm and Owners P. K. Wrigley made that decision yesterday, in addition to setting Feb. 21 as the date of departure for Catalina Island, Calif., of their "kindergarten" class of rookies, plus a few veterans. Included in this group will be pitchers Clay Bryant, Clyde Shoun and Roy Parmelee, all veterans, catcher Gabby Hartnett, Manager Grimm and Coach Red Corriden will head the first contingent to go west.

The second Cub group is due at Catalina March 3.

LITTLE CHUTE—Purdue nosed out Wisconsin in the final seconds of play, 23 to 22, and Indiana walloped Minnesota, 28 to 13, in Little Chute Holy Name league games at St. John's gymnasium last night. With Little time left in the game, Wisconsin led the maroon men, 22-20, but Nick Jansen converted on a free throw and Versteeg scored on a long shot as the whistle sounded.

Jansen led the scoring with three field goals and three gift shots for nine points while Ray Versteeg and Joe VanderVelden each scored six points. Lefty Wildenberg poured five buckets into the hoop for ten points to lead the Badgers.

Indiana made good on most of its shots to dispose of Minnesota. Leo Lamers led the Hoosier offense with six field goals for twelve points while Ray Look rolled in three baskets.

Fourth, Third Ward Youths to Clash at 112 Pounds

SAVIOR Canadeo and Johnny Anderson of West DePere and St. Norbert college will appear in windup bouts of the American Legion fight card Thursday evening, Jan. 20. It has been announced by Leslie Holzer, matchmaker. Three Appleton boxers also have been given spots on the card, Holzer said, two of them clashing for city honors.

Canadeo has been paired with Duke Stanton, Racine, who will be making his first local start but who is reported to be tops in downstate fist circles. Johnny Anderson, missing from the Appleton ring for more than a year, will take on Roy Vidovich, Green Bay, in a go that will feature a boxer in Anderson against a puncher in Vidovich.

Los Angeles—The nation's waning professional golfers made their 1938 bow here today in the 13th annual Los Angeles open for a $5,000 purse.

The field of approximately 275 was divided. Some played their initial 18 holes over the Woodrow Wilson course of the municipal Griffith park layout, the rest shooting over the companion Warren G. Harding course.

Far for the Wilson course is 71, for the Harding, 72. Eighteen holes will be played each day, including the championship final round Monday over the Wilson course.

"Lighthorse Harry" Cooper remained a favorite to repeat, backers pointing to sub par practice rounds. Virtually every ranking pro was entered, however, and the favorite's spot was precarious. National open champion Ralph Guldahl, Denny Shute and Ed Dudley were the major "names" missing.

Sole woman entered was Babe Didrikson, the mighty gal of sports.

Bob Feller Will Get 1938 Salary Increase

Cleveland—(P)—The powerful right arm of Bob Feller, the "story book kid" from an Iowa farm who became the American league strikeout ace, has earned him a salary increase as pitcher for the Cleveland Indians.

Alva Bradley, club president, announced last night that Master Bob would draw more pay for the 1938 season—but the figure was not disclosed.

While Feller's 1937 diamond income was not made public, an authoritative source indicated it was a flat $15,000. A Cleveland baseball writer said "the probability is that he will draw in the neighborhood of $17,500 for his services in 1938."

Portland, Me.—Heywood Storey, 162, Waterville, won newspaper decision over Joe Lynch, 161, Jersey City, N. J., 80. Vince Troiano, 151, Portland, won newspaper decision over Bill Lancaster, 147, Spokane, Wash., 80.

Predict DiMaggio Will Get $25,000 For 1938 Services

Yankee Star Destined to be Second Highest Paid Player

NEW YORK—(AP)—That Joe DiMaggio will sign for about $25,000 this season and eventually, say, in three more years, reach a peak salary of $50,000 from the Yankees is the consensus of some of the smartest baseball minds around town.

Joe, they agree, will never approach the $80,000 that was banked by Babe Ruth in 1930 and 1931. It's a different day, times are tougher, and so is Colonel Jacob Ruppert, the 70-year-old owner of the Yankees. The colonel no longer is a soft touch.

All the speculation was born of a report in a local paper that the famous San Francisco spaghetti bender already had signed a contract for 1938 at a stipend of $25,000, or $10,000 above the figure he received for smiting 46 home runs last year.

Deny Report

DiMaggio denied it promptly, and so did Earl Brown, secretary of the club. On the day they were supposed to have signed the document, Barrow contends he was on a train en route here from St. Louis. Also, he says he never has been in the hotel where the ceremony was reported to have taken place, so it must have been two other house detectives.

What sounded fishiest about the reported signing to those who know DiMaggio best was the idea that he had made so momentous a decision on his own hook. It's well known that the San Francisco DiMaggios, including the aunts, uncles and cousins, get their heads together on a thing of that sort.

Joe, says Barrow, will receive his contract with the Yankees' initial offer very shortly, along with the other players. He will have it with him, no doubt, when he shows up here Jan. 18 to start the Brooklyn Braves' fight among other things. That's when the debate will really begin.

Ruth's Record

There seems to be no doubt in anybody's mind that DiMaggio is destined eventually to become the second highest paid player in the history of the game. But the Yanks will keep a tighter rein on him than they did on the Babe. It is interesting to see how Ruth's pay check bounced upward after he joined the club.

1920—$20,000; 1921—$30,000; 1922—$35,000; 1923—$40,000; 1924—$45,000; 1925—$50,000; 1926—$55,000; 1927—$60,000; 1928—$65,000; 1929—$70,000; 1930—$75,000; 1931—$80,000; 1932—$75,000.

DiMaggio now, it will be observed, is far behind what the Bambino was drawing down after a similar length of service with the Yankees, but Ruth was an established star long before he reported to Miller Huggins. If Joe talks the Yankees into $25,000 for the coming season (and it seems likely, for he's going to demand $30,000) it will be a record for a third-year man.

Likewise, the news that Joe is going after that kind of money should reap a record crop of headlines for the Yankee front office. The others, including Lou Gehrig, who now is tops at $36,000, are certain to growl for a proportionate hike in pay. Gehrig, it is recalled, held out stubbornly for $40,000 last season.

Former Track Ace Heads Committee to Chase Racketeers

Long Beach, Calif.—(AP)—Charles Paddock, once "the world's fastest man," has turned to chasing racketeers.

Business manager of the Long Beach Press Telegram and Sun, daily newspapers here, the former holder of most of the world sprint records leaves tonight for New York city to confer with Thomas E. Dewey, district attorney.

Paddock will represent "The Committee of Ten Thousand," an organization of Long Beach and suburban Signal Hill and Seal Beach, designed to "prevent and drive out of the city organized racketeering."

The former Olympic star was appointed at a mass meeting to confer with Dewey on ways and means of ridding the city of racketeers. "We have a very real problem here," said Paddock. "Since Dewey clamped the lid down in New York, Southern California has become the stopping place of many of the undesirable he chased out. We want to find out who they are."

"We also want to know the best method of getting rid of them."

The Committee of Ten Thousand advertises itself as an organization of "employers, employees, tax payers and home owners, union workers as well as nonunion workers."

Boilermakers May Break Scoreboard Against Chicago

Chicago—(AP)—Purdue's high-geared basketball team invades the midway tomorrow night, and University of Chicago officials are worried that their scoreboard won't be able to handle the fast-scoring Boilermakers.

The Chicago scoreboard, operated electrically, has no figures higher than 60 points for each team—and Purdue, in eight pre-season games, averaged almost 60 points a game, running up 62 against U.C.L.A., and 72 against Denver. A capacity crowd is expected to watch the Boilermakers and Maroons open their Big Ten season.

Other Western conference games Saturday night will be Ohio State at Northwestern, Indiana at Iowa, Illinois at Michigan, Minnesota at Wisconsin.

COMMON SENSE CONSERVATION

By L.H. KINGSTON

GREEN BAY — According to the hunting and trapping regulations laid down by the Wisconsin Conservation Department there is now and has been for the last few years a closed season for the taking of fur-bearing animals in all of the national forest areas within this state. That means that no fur-bearing animals can be trapped in the Nicolet National Forest located in Vilas, Oneida, Oconto and Langlade Counties, nor in the Chequamegon National Forest located in the Counties of Taylor, Ashland, Sawyer, Bayfield, Price and Vilas.

I have often wondered just why these areas were closed to the taking of fur-bearers. Certainly it was not because these animals were more scarce there than in other places and needed this protection for these areas are among the wildest parts of the state.

Now I am no particular friend of trappers — in fact, I will readily agree that the steel trap is the most inhuman contrivance ever used by man against dumb creatures, but that is another matter. I do think, however, that all trappers should be treated alike—those who happen to live within the national forest areas should not have been suddenly put entirely out of business. That is unfair and discriminatory.

The average trapper in northern Wisconsin is not a professional at the game. He is the settler who is having a hard time up there now that the timber is gone and a little cash income during the slack winter months from trapping always has been more than welcome. Now if he happens to be located within one of the national forest areas he is simply out of luck.

Beavers have become extremely numerous in national forests since the time these areas were closed to trapping. In the Nicolet forest they have ruined almost every trout stream — they have actually become pests, yet no trapper dares to touch them.

Last winter the conservation department sent out some of its game wardens located in counties within these national forests to trap beavers where they were most plentiful. One of the wardens in the Nicolet forest trapped, to my knowledge, 100 of the animals. The pelts were sent to Madison to be sold by the conservation department.

"What is this, a private beaver preserve for the conservation department?" That was the recent angry exclamation that came from a man living in Forest county. I must admit that he and others like him have plenty of reason for protest, some trapping regulations we now have in effect should be speedily reconsidered.

P. Waner Doesn't Like New Contract

Says Pirate Owners are Looking for "Cheaper Faces"

Sarasota, Fla.—(AP)—Paul Waner, far from satisfied with a new baseball contract offered him by Pittsburgh, said today the Pirates "probably want cheaper faces" than new faces.

The slugging outfielder was commenting on President Bill Benswanger's offer yesterday to trade his players "star for star."

"We feel the advantage of new faces would be sufficient inducement for trades," Benswanger said, even if deals failed to strengthen the club.

"Benswanger probably wants cheaper faces," Waner declared.

"According to the contract sent me, he has no stars to trade, but just wants a bunch of bums at two for a nickel."

"Any trade he wants made for me is okay by me. Them's my sentiments."

Brother Lloyd Waner, who holds down one of the Pirate outfield posts, said a trip to another club would be "okay by me," too.

Just what terms Pittsburgh offered him, Paul Waner did not say. He was one of the chief holdouts last year, remaining in Florida long after his team had gone into training on the Pacific coast.

Benswanger said he was interested "in a major trade of any kind—and if one is made this year, I'll letcha we'll be in on it."

"Mind you," he added, "we don't want to give away one of our stars like the Waners or Vaughan or Suhr for two or three secondary players. But we are ready and eager to make a deal with any club that will give us men of calibre equal to those we lose."

He said he had no idea of "wrecking a third place ball club" just to get new faces.

American League Ump Retires Voluntarily

Chicago—(AP)—The booming voice of umpire Clarence "Buck" Owens bellowing "str-r-rike three—uh" will be missing from the American league games when the 1938 season opens next April.

Along with Owens, William Dineen and Charley Johnston also will be missing. Johnston, it is reported, will join the American association.

THE CAMERA AFIELD

By Cal Johnson

WINTER photography can be listed as one of the most interesting forms of outdoor recreation as it brings the individual into locations where the crystal beauties of Jack Frost's handiwork is at its height. Snapshots of the trout fisherman's favorite stream as it lays silent and still with a covering of ice and snow are beautiful views that depict a vastly different scene than that of the rushing waters of spring time. The white mantle of snow, the drooping branches of the conifer trees, the dead and dry rushes, the leafless willows and the gnarled windfall across the stream offer unlimited settings for the camera enthusiast and artist.

Nowadays we find thousands of people enjoying the many phases of sports offered by old man Winter. Records of the happy days should be registered with the camera. Spills and thrills alike can be "shot" on the ski and toboggan slides and the laughing faces of friends can be permanently set on camera prints that grow more valuable as time passes on. Outdoor scenes of children at play have long been popular subjects for the camera enthusiast, for such scenes register youthful days that can be lived over again when the family album is taken from its shelf and scanned in later years.

All outdoor pictures should be taken as naturally as possible. Posed pictures may be alright when it is necessary to take a studio portrait, but the care free atmosphere that shows the subject enjoying real fun. Many times the picture which is snapped unnoticed by the subject turns out the best and most interesting of all. Candid camera snaps are now the rage as such pictures usually catch folks when they are acting natural and not posed in a stiff setting that is in itself unnatural and uninteresting.

Small Camera Popular

The type of camera is much a matter of the individual's preference. Size of film is another factor which is governed according to the whims of the camera fan. The smaller size cameras are very popular as they are less expensive to operate and enlargements can be made of any shots which happen to strike the fancy of the individual. The modern camera is not complicated and anyone can secure good photos by merely studying the operations of the camera briefly before taking to the field to select picture locations.

Small movies are perhaps the most interesting films possible to make. With several reels of film the winter's fun is recorded in a fashion which brings back memories more vividly. Every smile and expression is registered on the individuals face and the lives of those most dear to the heart are seen on the screen in all their naturalness.

Winter photography is a hobby of many folks. The beauties of a northern winter are missed by many who do not appreciate the real artistic settings that are in evidence in every location. Deep snow and cold weather may be a pain in the neck to a great many people, but the camera fan sees an artistic setting in such things and the younger generation, especially, has learned that snow time is the time when one appears in the open in the most colorful dress and under conditions which extend vast possibilities for taking good pictures.

Report Elmer Lampe Of Carroll to Get U. of Georgia Post

Atlanta—(AP)—From sources close to the athletic throne of the University of Georgia it was learned last night an athletic director and a head football coach will be hired in a reorganization of the school's sports setup.

The new plans, it was indicated by the usually authoritative source, call for the selection of Elmer A. Lampe of Carroll college (Waukegan, Wis.) as director of athletics, with supreme command over all sports except on the football field.

Dell Morgan, for four years line coach at Auburn, and Joel Hunt, backfield coach at Louisiana State University, were considered the ranking choices for the job as head coach of football, with the former's chances strengthened by developments today.

A five-man subcommittee of the school's athletic board met here in executive session to arrive at a final decision which it will present to the governing 19-man board at Athens some time next week. The athletic board must approve the setup.

Steele, Apostoli Will Box for Fun Of It at New York

Bout Tonight Expected to Be Buildup for Title Match This Summer

NEW YORK—(AP)—There's been as much fuss over tonight's non-title match between middleweight champion Freddie Steele and foremost challenger Fred Apostoli as there has been over any real 160-pound championship fight in years.

The thing about it, however, is that a lot of the talk about tonight's 12-round fust in Madison Square Garden was anything but complimentary.

The "experts" and fans, alike, can't see why two such ranking bellies as the Seattle champ and the San Francisco hopeful can't go to work on each other over the 15-round route, with the title at stake. They can't figure out why the fight should be one of those "what's the use" or "ho, hum" affairs.

Of course, the fight promoters involved are generally regarded as hoping tonight's tangle is somewhere near close, so that the build-up can start for a title go this summer, either here or in San Francisco or Seattle. Into the affair has been injected the "grudge" angle, along with a lot of high-powered ballyhoo that Apostoli is a head-eyed cinch to make it a lot closer than when he was belted out by this same Steele a couple of years ago.

Steele, who took the title from Babe Risko in July 1936, goes into the ring at odds somewhere close to 5 to 8. He has defended the crown successfully against Gorilla Jones (last January), Risko (February), and Ken Overlin (September).

"Twenty games is a big enough task," Bob told his listeners.

Feller, who did not win last year, "My work last spring and nothing to do with my sore arm early in the summer," he said.

New Deal Seeking Revision of Laws To Control Prices

Convinced It Is Only Way To Prevent Sudden Drops in Business

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — There is nothing really inconsistent between the attacks made last month in the Jackson-Ickes speeches against monopoly and the latest pronouncement by President Roosevelt on the idea of "round table" conferences of government and industry to plan production schedules.

Lawrence
vate monopoly, but a revision which will permit government supervision of prices and production.

The Jackson-Ickes addresses were carefully timed to arouse the public against private price-fixing. It was intended to show the abuses of private power as it is supposed to be exercised under our present economic system. But when Mr. Roosevelt in his press conference spoke of having business men sit around the table with government, he did not intend anybody to assume that he was going to allow private price-fixing by those who sat in conference. Certainly, if he did, it would be an inconsistency in his position.

The administration is convinced that price control of some kind is inevitable if America is to keep from having sudden drops in business volume such as the recently begun recession has developed. The present mechanism for making prices is held to be a mixture of monopolistic practices and competition and with no coordination by anybody for fear of coming into collision with the Sherman anti-trust laws, with their various judicial interpretations extending over a period of nearly 50 years.

But since the public is not likely to permit private price-fixing, the only other instrumentality left, of course, is the government itself. By sitting around in conference with business men in each industry, ideas would be advanced in round table fashion, but the decision would be that of the government itself.

Other Plans
There are other plans, to be sure, which are discussed from time to time, such as giving a public utility status to important basic industries and regulating their profits or rate of return on investment somewhat as is done with electric light and power companies. The assumption is that, in basic materials derived from natural resources in the first instance, the element of price fixing between groups of marketing corporations is related solely to a narrow list of items and that hence the manipulation of prices is easier than in other productive enterprises, where the elements entering into the price may vary considerably.

Just how is the government to acquire the power to control or regulate basic industries? Isn't it unconstitutional? The supreme court of the United States has said that rather broad power is vested in the federal government to say what industries can be clothed with or "affected with a public interest."

With the "liberals" in complete control of the supreme court now, there need be little doubt as to the gradual extension of the federal power to include whatever regulatory authority may be needed to afford protection to interstate commerce.

The real question is how the federal power is going to be exercised and what legislation will be sought so as to cover the problem of price control. The mistake of the NRA was in trying to do too much at once. The next time the administration attempts control of business, the effort will be limited to a few basic industries in the hope of getting a "planned production" first and price control second.

All this necessarily means government regulation of labor unions, not of course in any way intervening in their own affairs so far as administration or organization is concerned, but in the use they may seek to make of their economic power.

Labor Costs
In many industries, for example, labor costs are so much of a factor that they almost control the price. It is incredible that the administration would be thinking of price control without taking into consideration the importance of regulating labor's demands. Labor may not like this, but a hint of what is coming was given in the president's message to congress this week about the misuse of power by large groups, and also in his press conference the next day, when he referred to the importance of cooperation by labor as well as capital.

What the administration is seeking is not exactly a controlled economy, but an organized economy. It believes that an organized democracy is necessary if world conditions are to be battled with by the American people and the more drastic controls of fascism are to be avoided.

The business men of the country may think of "cooperation" in terms of an equal voice by them at the conference table, but what is intended really by the administration is that labor and business shall come into conference and government

BETTER COATS
59.75 COATS
REDUCED TO... 39.75

shall have the deciding voice as to what each or both should do in order to increase employment, keep prices down, and develop a fair return for capital invested and for labor.

Not the least of the subjects being discussed behind the scenes is the problem of allocating volume within an industry so that limits are placed on bigness and so that marginal producers or businesses are not placed at a disadvantage because of the large surpluses or larger capital sums invested in big business.

The administration is getting ready to argue that what America needs is "stabilized profits" and that the very uncertainties of which business complains will be removed by the exercise of governmental power to assure continuity of production and planning.

AP Science Editor
New York—The club life of the grasshopper has been discovered by John S. Kennedy of the British Museum.

This club life of the grasshopper is probably the long-sought starting place for the destroying locusts—the swarms of flying hoppers which have been intermittent scourges, beginning with Biblical narrative.

Ordinary looking grasshoppers turn black, take on the distinctive markings of the destroying locusts, acquire voracious appetites, lose their liking for solitary life and fly in swarms. Scientists have changed these ordinary hoppers to locusts by merely breeding them in crowded cages, and have changed the destroyers back again by breeding in solitary cages.

But where in nature, do the hoppers get together, to strike up a mob life? Mr. Kennedy thinks he found the places in sunny bare spots in millet fields in the Sudan. There he saw solitary hoppers gathering daily like clubmen, to bask in warmth.

LET'S STEP OUT—I'M BEGINNING TO FEEL LOCUSTISH!

City Snow Removal in December Cost $1,566

Snow removal during December cost the city $1,566.41, according to the monthly report of the street department. An additional $291.22 was spent spreading rock salt and cinders on icy arterial stops. Department workmen today were removing snow and ice from curbs and hauling it away with city trucks.

$304.97 for Relief in Kimberly During Month

Kimberly—The relief report for December issued Thursday by H. J. Kilsdonk amounted to $304.97 after a $350 county refund was deducted. During the month there were 11 cases on relief.

The budget for relief this year is $3,600. The total amount spent last year for relief was $3,599.82. The Christian Mothers society of the Holy Name church will hold its annual meeting the first of February to discuss the activities for the year. The society has now close to two hundred members, who receive holy communion in a body the first Sunday of each month.

Officers of the society are: Mrs. Adrain Bosman, president; Mrs. Frank Van Lieshout, vice president; Mrs. John Weyenberg, treasurer; and Mrs. Peter Van Loon, secretary. The Rev. C. B. Vanden Borne, pastor, is spiritual director.

The American Legion auxiliary will hold its regular meeting at the clubhouse at 7 o'clock Monday evening.

'Hidden Talent' Sought For Forensic Contests
Waupaca—In an effort to discover "hidden talent" for local forensic contests which will begin in February, the English committee of the high school devoted the first three days of this week to individual extemporaneous reading, declamations and orations in each English class. Three minutes were given each student on each of the three subjects.

WED BY PROXY
Berkeley, Calif. —(AP)—She embarked from New York as Florence Holden, an American citizen, and landed at Marseilles, France, as Mrs. Maurice Miller, a subject of Great Britain.

Such was the experience of a Berkeley woman in a recent marriage by proxy on the high seas. Her new husband is British vice consul at Barcelona, Spain. He could not get a leave of absence and she could enter Spain only as his wife — so the marriage took place via radio while she was on shipboard.

THE CHARACTERS

Nina, ex-debutante, impulsively married David, hoping to end her love for her stepfather. Now she appreciates David and is disgusted with Richard, the charming well-tailored stepfather, proposed secret love to Nina.

Honey, Nina's gay, childish mother, is wild about Richard. David, a bright young auto salesman with a small salary, adores Nina.

Grace, an old girl friend of David, still pursues him.

Chapter 43 FALLING IN LOVE

After David, too, had had a slight and much needed builder-upper with the girls, he exclaimed: "Whew! what an afternoon! Little David with a breath on him like a brewer, demonstrating a closed car, to somebody's Aunt Minnie."

aged 70. And the floats... what a case of the floats! I was glad when she insisted on having the windows up. I was afraid I might just drift out of one."

"David" explained Nina, "was a verree bad boy last night."

"Your partner in crime was just here, my friend," remarked Cordelia, naughtily.

"Who-Jack? Oh--Grace Real-ly?" He didn't seem to care much one way or the other, which was a nice sign.

Nina knew that Cordelia would notice and she was glad. In spite of her hangover, mean little Grace had looked quite darling, in a new perky felt hat and a suit with a diminutive jacket.

"To cap the climax," David went on, leaning up against the mantel "there was a car in front of us, all the way round the park, with a very dusty metal tire cover on the back. Some little boy had printed in the dust: 'Sammy stinks'." Just like that, a terse statement: "Sammy stinks!" I tried to pass the darn thing and Aunt Minnie, the poor girl, looked every where but at it... but the car stuck in front of us like a leech."

Cordelia and Nina were howling. "Finally it got to a point where you couldn't ignore it, so I said 'Fifty--what?' and..."

"David you didn't!"

"Sure, I did and Aunt Minnie..."

"David, you didn't tell it to her, after that!"

And he said again: "Sure, I did! And Aunt Minnie said: 'My, my, boys will be boys' or something like that; and we got quite merry over poor, unpopular Sammy." He took another drink. "I'll tell you whose Aunt Minnie she was, Nina. Remember that Carstairs fellow, whom I handled so brilliantly--sold a new car to, when he wanted to rent a second-hand one? Well it was his Aunt Minnie, Swell girl."

"Swell, David," corrected Cordelia.

"Wolla-man Day," he agreed modestly.

Presently Cordelia had to go, and they parted shouting: "Sammy stinks!" and "Remember, poor Sammy!" at each other, like ridiculous infants.

Nina felt that she shouldn't feel so happy... that she hadn't the right.

David, lamb... would you, by any chance, feel like kissing me?"

And her heart gave a totally unexpected, and vigorous thump in her breast... because David--would

It was the most extraordinary thing

She told herself how fine David was--how much finer than Richard, how their only hint of trouble had been money trouble... and that had been her fault, and was over now... She told herself that David was extremely attractive, but that unlike Richard, he was putting that attractiveness

Two's Company

By MARGARET CLION HERZOG

toward getting ahead, doing something worth while. . . .

But she wasn't arguing herself into loving David. . . . she was falling.

Lord! Poor Nina, she ought to know!

It was just as though he were a beau, or something.

Little things about him simply delighted her: his long, lean, puppy loose-jointedness. . . . his grin. . . . the way he looked in his battered hat, and none too new clothes. . . . his crazy humor. . . .

The way he kissed her. . . .

She found herself trying to look her best—not only because it was part of being a good wife—but because she wanted him to think her attractive. . . .

She had never felt any of this toward him before.

Nina had always been so busy thinking how fine he was, how good for her, how she admired his self-respecting attitude toward life. . . . but now all of a sudden, she was simply entranced with him. . . . himself.

It had begun the day after her trip to Tarrytown, that late afternoon after Cordelia's departure, when she had asked him to kiss her by any chance, feel like kissing her. . . . and her heart had given that unexpected flip-flop, because he would.

There were three days in there, when life was heaven.

Nothing like a good house-cleaning of the soul—plus falling in love, to make life such a wonderful thing that your heart nears bursting. . . .

Gracie Drops In Again

On the fourth day, Gracie dropped in again.

Nina had just bought herself a new autumn suit—to entice David—and she was pirouetting in front of the mirror in it, when the bell rang.

Gracie noted its newness, right away, because the tag was still dangling from the sleeve. She looked at it, with that frankness in which she seemed to specialize, and said: "Whew!" . . . indicating quiet plainly that she disapproved of the expense.

Nina didn't feel like confiding their financial arrangements—that she had an allowance of her own, for clothes—so she just let Gracie think whatever she wanted to think.

It was just after 11 a. m. — a funny time for one girl, who kept house, to call on another.

Nina kept casting covert glances at her wrist-watch because David was coming home to lunch. Nina had begged him to, she couldn't seem to get enough of him. . . . these days—and David had laughingly agreed.

But the reason for the early call came out when Gracie said she had just come from the salesrooms on Broadway.

"I have my old job back, Nina, and I'm—that—pleased!"

Nina thought: "Ah—hah! That means seeing more of David. . . . no wonder she's happy!"

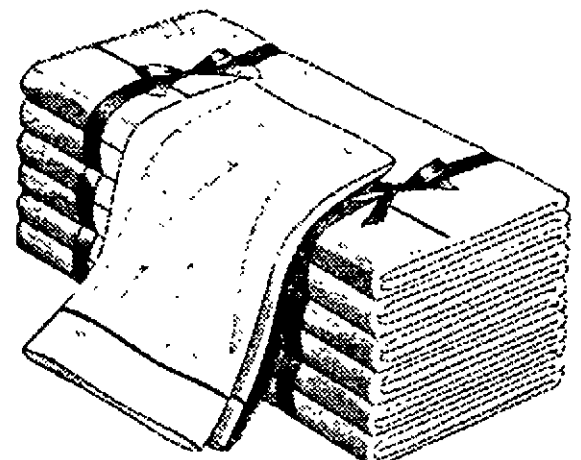

But she said: "Oh, Gracie, that's fine. I'm so glad for you!"

Shortly before noon, she departed.

Nina had been panicky for fear Gracie and David might overlap and thus necessitate an invitation to stay. But her husband didn't show up till a little before one, and they sat down to a lunch, a deuce, at a bridge table in the living-room.

(Copyright, 1937)

Nina gets involved in a couple of small lies, tomorrow.
